REVOLT THREAT IN U. S. IS CITED BY ROOSEVELT

"Wiser, More Equitable" Income Distribution Is Demanded.

HITS WALL STREET IN NOMINATION BID

New York Governor Asserts "Reward for Day's Work Must Be Greater."

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Atlanta, May 22.—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, demanding a "wiser and more equitable" distribution of the national income, warned in a speech made here tonight that "millions in want will not stand by silently forever while the things to satisfy their needs are within easy reach."

The New York executive, far ahead in the race for delegates to the Democratic national convention, with the Chicago meeting scarcely a month away, responded in an address at the Oglethorpe Universitiy commencement to the entreaties of certain of his followers that he make a "fighting bid" for the nomination.

Roosevelt outlined no specific plan for redistribution of wealth, but he asked for "bold, persistent experimentation."

Says Drastic Means Necessary.

"It is common sense to take a method and try it," he said. "If it fails, admit it frankly and try another, but above all try something. We need to prevent by drastitc means if necessary the faults of our economic system from which we now suffer."

"We need the courage of youth," he counseled the young men and women of Oglethorpe who were graduated. Gov. Roosevelt received the honorary degree of doctor of laws from the school. Judge Edgar Watkins, chairman of the board of trustees, conferred it.

Roosevelt's warning of a threat of revolt against the present social order came at the close of a speech largely devoted to a discussion of the cause for the present economic situation.

He charged part of the responsibility for that situation to the Cool-

Hawley Defeated In Oregon's Ballot

Mott Leads Veteran Republican Representative by 700 Votes.

Portland, May 22 (A.P.).—Defeat of Willis C. Hawley, veteran Republican representative in Congress seeking renomination in Oregon's primary Friday, was apparent today as returns from all but a few scattering precincts showed James W. Mott, corporation commissioner, had outrun him by 700 votes. The count stood: Mott, 30,753; Hawley, 30,020, with only 23 small percincts missing. Hawley has represented Oregon 20 years.

Mott will be opposed in the November election by Harvey Starkweather, who apparently bested William Delzell for the Democratic nomination by less than 300. With 35 precincts in remote regions unaccounted for, Starkweather had 11,863 votes and Delzell 11,614.

With 170 small precincts missing, Walter Gleason, prohibition repeal candidate, was leading Elton Watkins, a dry, by 175 votes for the Democratic senatorial nomination. Gleason had 20,214 and Watkins 20,039. The winner will meet Senator Frederick Steiwer, (Republican), in November.

Bombs Delivered To Cuban Leaders

One Hurled at Residence of Maj. Rasco; Plot Is Laid to Terrorists.

Havana, Cuba, May 22 (A.P.).—Packages containing bombs similar to that which killed Lieut. Diego Diaz, chief of a suburban military post, yesterday, were delivered to several high army officers today in what police called a plot of terrorists. One bomb was hurled at the suburban residence of Maj. Federico Rasco, the province military commander.

Capt. Saman Iego, commander of the Camaguey military forces, received one of the packages, and was warned in time. It was rumored many other army officers had received similar packages.

Police were inclined to associate the bombs with the recent so-called "Union Athletica" conspiracy, a plot against the government to culminate in a revolution on Cuba's independence anniverary day. Authorities said the nipped it when they raided the offices of the Cuban Athletic Union and arrested almost 100 alleged conspirators.

Roosevelt Not Wet, Pickett Article Says

Methodist Points Out Naming of Barkley as Keynoter and Does Not See Dry Defeat If Governor Wins.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York is not a real wet and the drys of the country will "have no reason to feel that prohibition has been repudiated" if he wins the Democratic nomination for President and is elected, according to Deets Pickett, research secretary of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals.

Mr. Pickett's analysis of Gov. Roosevelt appears in the April issue of the Voice, a publication distributed among Methodist clergymen. It is one of the most intriguing documents to come to light in the pre-convention campaign, and seems certain to cause Roosevelt trouble in the wet centers.

Pickett's article reads like an indorsement of Roosevelt by a powerful dry lobby. He says in effect that Roosevelt is a pseudo, or "political" wet; and he cites numerous things that should comfort the drys, among them Roosevelt's feud with Alfred E. Smith, his battle with John J. Raskob over a wet plank, and his selection of Senator Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky, a dry, as keynoter of the Democratic national convention. Also he cites the fact that Mrs. Roosevelt is a prohibitionist.

Gov. Roosevelt has stated in emphatic terms that he is for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, but Mr. Pickett apparently doesn't think he is sincere. Roosevelt's repeal declaration, he insists, was simply a "sop to the wets," especially to those wets in New York, whose help he needs to win the nomination.

Pickett's article no doubt will be seized by the foes of Roosevelt to prove their contention that he is a pussy-footer on the prohibition question.

The Pickett article, as it appears in The Voice, says:

"The nomination of Gov. Roosevelt by the Democrats appears daily more probable, although it is not yet certain. Gov. Roosevelt, in view of two recent wet statements, can certainly not be the first choice of the drys in his party, but it would be a mistake to consider him to be what is ordinarily known as a 'soaking wet.' When he was in Washington,

DEAN 'INSIGNIFICANT' IN LINDBERGH HUNT

Norfolk Cleric Reaffirms Faith in Curtis' Original Claims.

Hopewell, N. J., May 22 (A.P.).—The Lindbergh murder investigators took advantage of a spring Sunday's calm to unwind a tangled skein of clews today and to dismiss Dean H. Dobson-Peacock as "insignificant" in their main quest.

An official polise bulletin so classifying the Norfolk (Va.) clergyman was regarded as an indication the combined State and Federal forces now are determined to press the pursuit of the baby killers without permitting side issues to occupy a moment of their time.

The statement was not regarded, however, as abandonment of an often-expressed desire of State police to confront John Hughes Curtis, jailed "hoax negotiator," with the clergyman who was associated with him in the faked activities.

Plans for the prosecution of Curtis are in the hands of Prosecutor Anthony M. Hanck, with Prosecutor Erwin E. Marshall concentrating on the murder inquiry itself.

The intensified attempt to track down the actual kidnapers, now that the mythical negotiations have been swept from the picture, centered in

Two Methodists Raised To Episcopacy at Parley

Atlantic City, N. J., May 22 (A.P.).—Bishops-elect J. Ralph Magee, former retiring district superintendent of the Seattle (Wash.) area, and Ralph S. Cushman, retiring pastor of the Asbugh Church, Rochester, N. Y., were formally elevated today to the episcopacy of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Bishop William F. McDowell, of Washington, D. C., senior presiding bishop of the church, acted as the consecrating cleric and sixteen other bishops participated in solemn ceremonies attended by about 5,000 persons.

U. S. WILL SEND 653 TO NICARAGUA VOTE

Plans Perfected for Marine Supervision of Election Next Fall.

The United States will dispatch an electoral force of 653 Americans under command of Rear Admiral Clark Howell Woodward to Nicaragua to supervise the forthcoming elections, it was authoritatively learned here last night. The first group of American Marines will leave for Managua this week, and Admiral Woodward himself will leave within ten days or a fortnight.

The decision to limit the number of Marine supervisors was reached last Friday after a conference at the White House. Naval and Marine officers pointed out the danger of sending an inferior number to Nicaragua in the face of dangerous bandit activities under the rebel Gen. Augusto Sandino, and were disposed to hold out for a force of at least 1,500 Marines. Secretary Stimson, however, adhered to his original plan of confining the activities of American Marines to strict police surveillance.

The Secretary of State has frequently expressed his intention of evacuating the entire force of Ma-

Former Premier Asked To Form Greek Cabinet

Athens, Greece, May 22 (A.P.).—President Zaimis instructed former Premier Alexander Papanastasiou, opposition leader, today to form a coalition cabinet to succeed that of Eleutherios Venizelos, who resigned as premier yesterday.

The president suggested that elections be held after the impending conference at Lausanne, Switzerland, on war debts and reparations, at which M. Venizelos should represent Greece. Despite the political crisis and alarmist rumors which were understood to prevail abroad, everything was quiet here tonight.

Soviet Bends Iron Attitude Toward Land's Upper Crust

Disenfranchisement Survivors of Old Czarist Regime Are Given Few Rights in Buying Food; Proletariat, However, Retains Priority in Buying.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Moscow, May 22 (A.P.).—The Soviet government today relaxed its unrelenting attitude toward the survivors of the old czarist regime—the disenfranchised or "declassed" elements of the population.

Under a decree issued today these Russians, who comprise about 5 per cent of the whole population, will be eligible to membership in the Consumers Cooperative Stores, entitling them to buy for the first time food and manufactured goods at minimum prices.

Heretofore only Communists in good standing had been permitted to these Soviet institutions, and a food card of membership was necessary.

The "declassed" population, composed chiefly of former landowners, traders, clergymen, some sections of the intelligentsia and the like, for various reasons have never been admitted to full Soviet citizenship. Thus they were forced to patronize the government's "commercial" stores, where any one is permitted to buy at prices ranging from 10 to 100 per cent more than at the cooperatives. Of course they could trade in the exorbitantly high private markets.

The new decree does not mean that the "declassed" Russians have been given ration cards permitting them to buy restricted necessities, such as bread, meat, butter and sugar. It does represent, however, an appreciable concession by allowing them to buy other available commodities at minimum prices.

The decree stipulates that goods shall be sold to them only after the wants of other members have been satisfied. Therefore at present they will be little better off because of the prevailing shortage of commodities, but the decree will work greatly to their advantage when increased supplies of goods for home consumption are made available.

LONDON CHEERS AMELIA PUTNAM FOR OCEAN HOP

Aviatrix Uses Borrowed Airplane for Flight From Ireland.

RECEPTION CROWD HEADED BY MELLON

Flier Will Go to Rome for Meeting of Those Who Have Spanned Ocean.

London, May 22 (A.P.).—Amelia Earhart Putnam, smiling lone flier of the Atlantic, flew from Londonderry, northern Ireland, to London today, landing in a terrific thunderstorm at Hanworth Airdrome to complete her oversea trip from New York.

"I don't mind the rain," she said in the downpour in which she arrived. "I got used to it Friday night."

She laughed as she said it, while a crowd of some 200 swarmed around her and cameras snapped.

Thousands, believing she was coming to Croydon Airdrome, gathered there to welcome her. Only a few, including a delegatoin from the American Embassy, headed by Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon, were on hand at Hanworth when the slim blonde flier arrived in a borrowed plane from Ireland, where she ended her ocean flight yesterday.

Visiting U. S. Embassy.

Earlier in the day Ambassador Mellon had telegraphed a message to her, expressing his admiration of her achievement and inviting her to come to the embassy and be the guest of his daughter, Mrs. David K. E. Bruce, the embassy's official hostess.

It was there she was taken after the welcome at Hanworth to spend the night and perhaps several days.

Both Mrs. Bruce and Mrs. David E. Finley, wife of the first secretary of the embassy, who was one of those who met her at Hanworth, ransacked their wardrobes to find clothes to fit the slight woman who is the only person in the world to have crossed the North Atlantic twice and the only woman to have crossed it once alone.

Miss Earhart came to London in the clothes in which she left New York—jodhpurs, a khaki shirt and a leather flying suit.

Husband Sends $500.

She still had most of the $20 which was her sole supply of cash, but friends here received $500 cabled from her husband in New York, George Palmer Putnam, the publisher, to be given to her.

"Here's your money," a friend told her.

"Keep it until we get out of the crowd," Miss Earhart whispered.

DO-X Is Cheered On Reaching Spain

Arrives From Azores on Way to Switzerland; All Are Safe.

Vigo, Spain, May 22 (A.P.).—The giant German seaplane DO-X arrived here today from Horta, Azores, on its homeward way to Lake Constance, Switzerland. Thousands of spectators cheered as the huge flying boat alighted safely in the harbor off Vigo.

Horta, Azores, May 22 (A.P.).—The giant German flying boat DO-X swept up from the waters of Horta Bay today for Vigo, Spain.

After only a brief stop for refueling, the seaplane took off in fine weather at 6:20 a. m. (3:20 a. m., Eastern standard time). Two hours later it sped over Ponta Delgada, on the Island of Sao Miguel. It arrived here at 10:55 o'clock last night (7:55 p. m., Eastern standard time) from Holyrood, Newfoundland. Neither Fraulein Antona Strassman, woman passenger-purser, nor any others of its crew of thirteen landed here.

SAITO FORMING COALITION BODY TO GUIDE JAPAN

74-Year-Old Veteran of Navy and Diplomat Gets Mandate.

SERVED AS GOVERNOR OF KOREA TEN YEARS

Ministry Make-Up to Guide Japan in Grave Crisis Not Yet Known.

Tokyo (Monday), May 23 (A.P.).—The prospect of a strong national emergency cabinet headed by Admiral Viscount Makoto Saito, former governor of Korea, emerged today from the welter of anxiety and bewilderment into which terrorism and the assassination of Premier Suyoshi Inukai plunged Japan a week ago.

Accepting the advice of Prince Saionji, venerable political oracle, Emperor Hirohito summoned Admiral Saito to the palace and handed him a mandate to form a cabinet capable of guiding the nation through one of the gravest crises in history.

The admiral was generally expected after a visit to Prince Saionji's quarters to ask the outstanding leaders of the Seiyukai and Minseito parties and the House of Peers to enter his cabinet, whose formation was expected to require several days. He also conferred with Count Hideyo Kodama, a close political associate.

Parliament Is Convened.

In accordance with a month-old summons from the cabinet of the late Premier Inukai, parliament convened in extraordinary session today.

The chief business at hand was further funds for the Manchurian campaign, higher tariffs, and foreign exchange control. After a perfunctory opening adjournment was taken until a new ministry can be installed.

Admiral Saito, 74-year-old veteran of two careers—naval officer and proconsul—is accounted one of the empire's ablest and most trusted administrators on the reputation he

Bomb Hurts 2 Women In Busy Tientsin Street

Tientsin, China, May 22 (A.P.).—A bomb exploded in front of a bank on a main street in the Japanese concession at a busy marketing hour tonight, causing panic among the people. Two Chinese women were slightly injured and taken to a hospital.

The bomb was thrown at 9 p. m., when the section was busiest, owing to reopening of the light markets in this vicinity. People fled in all directions, but Japanese police restored order. Chinese police took precautions at the border of the concession after the bombing, but no complications were expected.

Manchoukuo Quiz Group Is Rebuffed

Government Officials Resent League Body's Inquiry Plans.

Mukden, Manchuria, May 22 (A.P.).—Reports that coolness had sprung up between the League of Nations commission in Manchuria and the new Manchoukou government were confirmed today by the absence of Manchoukou officials when the commissioners passed through Changchun, the capital.

The breach began when the commissioners expressed a desire to interview the Chinese general Mah Chan-Shan, who at first opposed the Japanese-sponsored Manchoukou and later joined the new state, and only recently withdrew again.

The commissioners explained they wanted to hear both sides of the Manchurian dispute, but the Manchoukou authorities were critical of such a procedure, some vernacular newspapers expressing the idea that an interview with Gen. Mah would be "little short of an insult" to Manchoukou.

Friend Fails to Save Man, Who Drowns Under Bridge

A swimming party in the Potomac River yesterday afternoon was turned into tragedy when Benjamin Leiss, 22 years old, of 515 L street northwest, became exhausted and was drowned.

Leiss and Irving Holober, 20 years old, of 1116 Seventh street northwest, drove to the Highway Bridge in an automobile, and leaving their clothes in the car, dived from an abutment on the bridge and were swimming near it when Leiss was drowned.

According to James L. Dingee, of 1258 Penn street northeast, an employe of the Washington Rapid Transit Co., who was crossing the bridge and had stopped to watch the swimmers, Leiss suddenly began to flounder about 100 feet from the bridge. Holober went to his aid, but after being dragged under several times had to release Leiss before a boat could reach them.

Holober was picked up by a boat cruising in the vicinity and removed to the Emergency Hospital by the Fire Department ambulance, where he

HOOVER SCORES BONDS TO AID PUBLIC WORKS; TAX CLOTURE IS FACED

Senate Chiefs Ready to Pass Measure Before Adjournment.

TO RESUME DISPUTE OVER TARIFF TODAY

Shutting Off of Debate Is Smoot Threat in Reply to Tydings.

(Associated Press.)

Grimley determined, Senate leaders met threat with threat yesterday as they gathered forces to push through the vital billion-dollar revenue bill to balance the budget.

Continuous day and night sessions and the use of the drastic cloture rule shutting off debate was the answer yesterday of the veteran Senator Smoot (Republican), Utah, in charge of the tax measure, to the challenge of Senator Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, to seek 500 tariff amendments.

Behind the bogged revenue bill are the all-important economy and unemployment relief measures, and all are going to be passed before the Senate quits, announced the Senate chieftains.

There was still a faint hope yesterday that the tax bill might be finished this week and an adjournment brought before the Republican national convention opsn on June 14. However, President Hoover has called upon the Republicans to forego the convention to finish the job and they have thrown away plans for attending the meeting.

Dispute to Be Resumed.

The bitter tariff dispute which has stalled the tax bill for more than three days will be resumed today, with the closely knit tariff coalition prepared to keep the lumber and copper import taxes in the bill, together with the oil and coal duties it successfully defended last week.

The strain of the eleven-hour daily grind is beginning to tell on the Senate's nerves, but Senator Smoot said this program will be continued this week, and increased, if necessary.

"We will go right ahead," he firmly announced. "If a filibuster develops, I will ask the Senate to stay right on the job and meet it. I will not hesitate to ask the cloture rule if it is necessary."

Chairman Jones, of the special economy committee, promised to have the economy measure ready for immediate action by the time the tax measure is concluded.

Democrats Aid Measure.

The $2,300,000,000 Democratic relief bill will be laid before the Senate

Sunnyvale, Calif., May 22 (A.P.).—The U. S. S. Akron will cast off from her mast here tomorrow morning for a northern tour, which is to take her almost to the Canadian border.

The course charted today leads the naval airship up the coast line of the Pacific to Astoria, Oreg., and thence over river valleys to Portland and the Washington cities of Olympia, Tacoma, Seattle, Everett and Bellingham. Officers expected to make the round trip without a stop. They said it would require several days, depending on the weather.

Text of Hoover's Letter On Public Works Plan

(Associated Press.)

The text of President Hoover's letter yesterday to Richard S. Parker, president of the American Society of Civil Engineers, follows:

I am in receipt of your kind letter of May 19 and I have also the presentation of the subcommittee of the society suggesting that the depression can be broken by a large issue of Federal Government bonds to finance a new program of huge expansion of "public works" construction, in addition to the already large programs now provided for in the current budgets. The same proposals have been made from other quarters and have been given serious consideration during the past few days.

The back of the depression can not be broken by any single Government undertaking. That can only be done with the cooperation of business, banking, industry and agriculture in conjunction with the Government.

CONGRESS IS ASKED TO FOREGO POLITICS

11 Notables of Both Parties Sign Appeal for Balancing of Budget.

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—An appeal to both parties in Congress to "lay aside every form of partisanship and unite to balance the Federal budget was made public today over the signatures of eleven men of national prominence, including former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, titular head of the Democratic party.

The letter, a 113-word document, is signed by:

Alfred E. Smith, former Governor of New York, Democratic candidate for President in 1928 and candidate for the Democratic nomination this year.

President Nicholas Murray Butler, of Columbia University, for years one of the leading members of the Republican party.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Gov. Wilbur L. Cross, of Connecticut, Democrat.

Gov. Joseph B. Ely, of Massachusetts, Democrat.

Pacific Flight Delayed By Menacing Weather

Seattle, May 22 (A.P.).—Unfavorable weather over the north Pacific and failure to receive official permission to land in Japan led Nathan C. Browne, New York flier, to postpone starting an attempted 4,700-mile flight to Tokyo today.

At Boeing Field Browne was told by Charles O. Schick, meteorologist, that rains, snow and dense fog prevailed over the area he would cover on his first night's flying. He had planned to get away by 3 p. m. The weather may clear up tomorrow or Tuesday, Schick added, and the flier probably will have tail winds to help him along on the first and most hazardous lap of his flight.

President Raps Proposal of Engineering Group to Help Idle.

INCOME-PRODUCING PROJECTS ARE URGED

Federal Five-Day Week and Relief Loans to States Also Favored.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday issued a slashing attack on proposals for huge public works financed by bond issues as a means of restoring normal employment in the country.

Without mentioning by name Democratic plans of this nature proposed in both the House and Senate, the President wrote Richard S. Parker, president of the American Society of Civil Engineers, that "a larger and far more effective relief to unemployment at this stage can be secured by increased aid to 'income-producing works.'"

Speaker Garner last week proposed a $1,000,000,000 bond issue for a governmental building program, and on Friday the special Democratic relief committee of the Senate called for a $500,000,000 bond issue for public construction.

The letter to Parker was in answer to a petition of a subcommittee of the society suggesting that the depression could be broken by a large issue of Government bonds to finance a new program of public works.

Extension of Aid.

The President said Government aid should be extended thusly:

Balancing the budget; avoidance of issuing further Government securities; continuation of the work of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; expansion of credit by the Federal Reserve; organized translation of these credits into actualities; sound strengthening of the foundations of agriculture; continuation of public works that do not place a strain on the taxpayer, and the continuation of national, community and individual efforts in relief of distress.

Newer proposals included:

The introduction of the five-day week in Government work; passage of the home loan discount bank legislation already before Congress; loans to States through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for distress relief, and loans to private industry by the corporation for the development of income-producing works throughout the country.

The President said that the "vice" in the proposals made by the engineering society for further expansion of public works is that "they include public works of remote usefulness."

Loan to Railroad Cited.

He cited the loan by the Reconstruction Corporation to the Pennsylvania Railroad for the electrification of its lines between New York and Washington as an example of productive development and the proposal by the House to lend $132,000,-

Kreuger Death News Brings Turkish Suits

Istanbul, May 22 (A.P.).—The Turkish government is bringing suit against the entire press of Istanbul for having published the news of the suicide of Ivar Kreuger, Swedish "match king," in Paris on March 12, and photographs of him.

Suicides increased so alarmingly in Turkey, owing to moral and social upheavals, that the Nationalist government passed a law forbidding newspapers to give any publicity to any suicide. But every newspaper forgot the law when it came to the Kreuger tragedy. Heavy fines are the penalty for violation of the law.

Siam Moves to Halt Bridal Of Prince and U. S. Dancer

Minister Sompati Instructed to Prevent Marriage of King's Cousin, Now at Princeton, to Beautiful Girl of Broadway.

The wheels of government have been put in motion to thwart the reported romance of a prince of the royal family of Siam and a Broadway dance hostess, it became known here yesterday. King Prajadhipok has cabled instructions to Siamese Minister Phya Subarn Sompati here to use every effort to prevent the marriage of Prince Ned Suksvasti to Chic Baker, of the Orpheum Dance Palace in New York City.

At the same time it became known that the prince, while confirming his acquaintance with Miss Baker, has denied to the minister any plans to marry her. He is said to have informed the envoy that he and other Princeton students had visited the Orpheum dance establishment and had taken Miss Baker and other hostesses to dine but denied that he had been with her alone.

Prince Suksvasti is a nephew of the Queen of Siam and is now a student at Princeton University. His brother is a student at the Georgetown Foreign Service School here now. During the visit of King Prajadhipok here last year when the Siamese potentate was operated on successfully for a cataract on the eye, the youthful prince was a member in waiting of the royal suite. He lived with the royal family for some time in the palatial estate at Purchase, New York, which Mrs. Whitelaw Reid placed at the disposal of the oriental royalty.

The Siamese Legation refused to give any information on the subject and declined to verify the report that the minister was in Princeton himself in an effort to prevent a marriage.

The beautiful dancer has been several times a guest at house parties in the exclusive clubs of Princeton.

Prince Suksvasti is well known here in Washington, where his cousin was

STONE RAPS PRIVATE GRAIN-SELLING PLAN

(Associated Press.)

Chairman Stone, of the Farm Board, charged yesterday the proposal of the Chicago Board of Trade's president to dispose privately of stabilization wheat was another indication of the traders' belief that they are "entitled, by custom, to take a heavy toll from American wheat producers."

Peter B. Carey, the board of trade's head, had asserted Saturday six members of his organization could dispose of all the Farm Board's wheat for cash "at a steadily advancing price."

"The public shouldn't be fooled by such attacks on the Farm Board as those of Mr. Carey," Mr. Stone said in a statement. "Their purpose is not to help in the present situation, but to prevent the farmer organizing his business so that he, in a measure, can control the method under which his products are sold."

Attitude On Lquidation.

He said Mr. Carey's proposition indicated "an attitude toward liquidation of these stocks strictly in conformity with the long-established viewpoint of board of trade members," adding:

"They look upon themselves as middlemen, entitled by custom, to take a heavy toll from American wheat producers for so-called services, which consist chiefly in the pocketing by themselves of the largest possible share of the consumer's dollar. Every suggestion so far made in the present depressed situation to this board for their assistance has contained, as its chief element, personal profit to those tendering aid, either by buying at prices ridiculously below the market or for commissions on huge volume.

"Liquidation of the stocks of the Grain Stabilization Corporation under the plan announced on June 30, 1931, has proceeded in such a manner that American wheat prices have been maintained at substantially 5 to 15 cents a bushel higher than world market price parity in the face of the most trying marketing conditions known to any living man.

"Let the grain gambling critics explain to the public how and why this happened."

Brighter Days Ahead.

Mr. Stone said the crop outlook now leads qualified observers to conclude that brighter days are in prospect for United States wheat producers and asserted "no wonder the speculatively inclined seek wheat stocks on the bargain counter."

Citing wheat as the only great majority commodity that has shown an upward trend recently, Mr. Stone said it may lead other commodities to higher ground.

"The recent disclosures as to the operations of brother speculators in stocks does not encourage the placing of great power in such hands," Mr. Stone added. "The orderly method of distributing as demand arises will be continued."

Kreuger Investors Form Protective Committee

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—The independent protective committee recently formed in the Kreuger & Toll Co. tangle has addressed an appeal to all holders of Kreuger & Toll 5 per cent debenture bonds to join its ranks.

The committee, which is headed by Balnbridge Colby, former Secretary of War, announced that its formation has now been completed. In asking for the deposit of bonds with it, the committee reviewed the history of recent Kreuger & Toll exposures.

MISS EARHART GETS PLAUDITS OF LONDON

made friends instantly with the crowd of English people.

The night arrival was so staged as to give a newsreel concern, which had befriended her, a sort of monopoly. It was for this reason that the destination was kept secret.

Rival newsreel men were excluded from Hanworth's grounds and there were several free-for-all fights when cameramen appeared from the bushes and attempted to take pictures anyway.

One of these flights occurred just as Ambassador Mellon was speaking his words of greeting to Miss Earhart. He halted, then asked:

"Do you suppose they really mean it?"

Mr. Mellon, fearful of the weather, had not intended to go to Hanworth himself, but the afternoon appeared so fine he made the trip with the Finleys. Hardly had he arrived, however, when the downpour started.

Announces Plans.

He remained at the clubhouse out of the rain and greeted Miss Earhart there sometime after her arrival.

American women golfers here for a tournament at Saunton this week were at Hanworth to greet the flier. They included Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, Mrs. Harley Higbie and Miss Virginia Van Wie. They were happy and smiling after their victory yesterday over a British team and chatted with Miss Earhart for a few minutes.

Miss Earhart said she would leave Europe for home about June 10, without going back to Ireland to supervise the crating of her plane, which will be dismantled and shipped back the United States.

She said she would go to Rome, where an international conference of transoceanic fliers is meeting, probably this week.

The flier announced her plans after a telephone call to her husband in New York.

She had dinner at the embassy with Mr. Mellon, Mrs. Bruce and Mr. and Mrs. Finley. She wore an old rose-colored dress lent to her by Mrs. Finley, but said she was going shopping early tomorrow.

"I can't keep borrowing forever," she explained.

"I sort of hate to leave my plane up there (in Ireland)," she said, "but there is a man here in whom I have faith to dismantle and pack it, so I am going to let him do it and ship it back to the United States for me."

Eventually she wants to try another solo trip, but that is a long way off, she said.

When messages of congratulation from Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and Lord Londonderry were read to her she nodded her head and commented:

"Now, that's nice of them, isn't it?"

Court Room Noises Mean Bedlam to Nervous Judge

By JOHN J. DALY

UNNECESSARY noise during his charge to the grand jury brought down stern repressive measures from a Federal judge, at the opening of term in a Maryland town. His Honor threatened to send all concerned to the hoosegow.

And what were the noises?

They were many and varied, as befits this razzle-dazzle in which we live.

1. An unidentified spectator laughed as the doorkeeper said, "Good morning, Judge," and the jurist, folding his judicial robes about him, tripped slightly as he took his seat on the bench. One stern rap of the gavel brought silence.

2. The entire courtroom, under the scrutiny of the judge, fell into a fit of uncontrolled coughing and the concurrent clearing of throats. It sounded like an audience at a play.

3. A dog fight, staged under the window of the court, caused the judge to send the United States marshal and his cohorts scurrying to the scene. The marshal fired a fusillade of shots to scare the mongrels away. Frightened, the judge jumped from the bench, ran to the window, stuck out his head, and wanted to know what all the shooting was about, if the marshal thought this was war, or something. "Put that gun back in your holster, sir, and come into the courtroom."

4. Panic-stricken by the gun-play, the spectators rushed to the windows, knocking over benches and seats as they went. In the mad scramble several women were knocked down and trampled upon. "One more stampede like that," said the judge, "and I'll clear the courtroom." In the meantime, a deputy marshal had arrested the owners of the barking dogs, charged with contempt of court, and another case was added to the docket.

5. Attracted by all the confusion around courthouse square, as some miscreant turned in a fire alarm and the engines dashed down Main street, sounding their sirens, mothers from nearby homes rushed to the place, bringing their babies along.

* * * *

THE babies, in the arms of their mothers, began to cry—loud howls and huzzahs—not knowing what it was all about. This was the last straw. The judge, frantic, began to tear his hair. The deaf on the jury cupped their ears with their hands, not able to hear a word.

"In the name of Blackstone," the judge implored, "take these crybabies back to the nurseries."

Just as the marshal and his deputies departed on this mission some one rustled a newspaper and the judge ordered the miscreant removed from the premises.

Yet some people want to know why the wheels of justice do not move faster. How can they, in a country given up entirely to noise? As the judge remarked, "Boys may be boys, but noise is just so much unnecessary irritation to the nerves."

And his honor is right.

Silence in the courtroom!

ENGLAND'S FLOODS CAUSE HEAVY LOSS

Several Cities in Midlands Are Marooned; No Deaths Reported.

Derby, England, May 22 (A.P.).—The heaviest floods in half a century spread through the English midlands today, marooning thousands in and on their homes, disrupting all traffic, wrecking communications and causing great damage to property.

Early reports listed no casualties.

The principal cities affected were Derby, Sheffield, Banbury, Northampton, Leicester, Buckingham, Worksop and Ashby de-la-Zouche. Dozens of other towns and villages were wrestling with high water.

Conditions in Derby, where the water in the central streets reached 5½ feet, were illustrative of the situation elsewhere in this heart of the English countryside.

Great damage to the goods in stores occurred, phones were put out of action and scores of houses in the poorer districts were inundated. Most of the roads leading to the city were impassable.

Householders in all of the cities tried with varying success to erect barricades against the water, which came after a long series of torrential rains. The rivers draining the area were unable to carry off this exccsive moisture."

Many inhabitants of Ashby-de-la-Zouche were imprisoned in their homes by the high water, and it was necessary to get food to them by boat. Most of the shop windows in the town were wrecked by the water pressure and the goods carried off into the nearby rivers. The roads were impassable, and two fire engines and many motor cars were marooned in the streets.

The River Anker overflowed its banks at Nuneaton, causing severe damage and stranding hundreds of persons in their homes.

Most every name, whether of mountain, river, vale or town in and around the midland plain of England, is famous in literature and history.

This is the country of Shapespeare, Sherwood Forest is just a little bit to the north and the feat of King Richard at Ashby-de-la-Zouche in the adventures of Ivanhoe might be recalled.

PROF. F.W. STEVENS, PHYSICIST, IS DEAD

Standards Bureau Employe Stricken in Room at Cosmos Club.

Prof. Frederick Wiley Stevens, a physicist at the Bureau of Standards, died yesterday afternoon shortly after being stricken ill at the Cosmos Club, where he lived.

Although 70 years of age, Dr. Stevens was said by his friends to be unusually active and in splendid health. He was stricken while in a washroom at the club, and in falling struck his head on some object, suffering a deep gash.

Coroner Joseph D. Rogers said the scientist's death was due to natural causes.

Prof. Stevens had been associated with the Bureau of Standards for more than twelve years, specializing in the study of gaseous explosions. Prior to coming to Washington he was a teacher of physics at Lake Forest College, Lake Forest, Ill. He worked at the Bureau of Standards in the department of heat and power, of which Dr. H. C. Dickinson is the head.

Dr. Dickinson said last night Prof. Stevens was responsible for extremely important accomplishments. Through the application of larger chemicals to explosive gaseous reactions he laid the scientific foundation for knowledge of vital significance, Dr. Dickinson said. One of Prof. Stevens' accomplishments was the measuring of explosive gas by inclosing it in a soap bubble. Through his experiments he could determine the velocity of flame on compound.

Prof. Stevens was found by Prof. Albert B. Bibb, a fellow resident of the club. Casualty Hospital was notified and Dr. Rose Doretski responded with the ambulance. She pronounced the scientist dead.

Prof. Stevens was a graduate of the University of Michigan and had studied at the Universities of Strassburg, Gottingen and Leipzig. He is survived by two sons and a daughter, all of whom live in Arkansas. The body will be sent to Goshen, Ind., for burial.

Maj. Hodges Promoted To Colonel of Ordnance

Richmond, Va., May 22 (A.P.).—Promotion of Maj. LeRoy Hodges, State ordnance officer of the Virginia National Guard, to be lieutenant colonel of ordnance, was announced today by Maj. Gen. S. Gardner Waller, adjutant general of Virginia.

Col. Hodges has served as State ordnance officer since 1920, and prior to that time, from February 1, 1918, he served as personal military aid to the commander in chief and secretary to the Governor of Virginia, with the rank of colonel, under Westmoreland Davis.

Shirking Federal Workers Rapped

Hiring of "Earners" Only Is Urged at Meeting by Mrs. Greathouse.

The Government will never balance its budget as long as it employs people who do not earn their salary, Mrs. Rebekah Greathouse, assistant district attorney, told more than 200 women at a meeting of the Government Workers Council of the National Women's Party at Alva Belmont House yesterday.

"If the Government is to be a charitable institution, it should employ only the needy, thereby eliminating valuable people from the service who have private incomes," Mrs. Greathouse declared. "The next step would be to reduce the salary of every person down to a living wage."

Mrs. Iris Calderhead Walker, director of the campaign for the equality reservation for adherence to the World Court, and Elsie Hill, of Connecticut, also addressed the meeting. Resolutions were adopted urging the President to invite all nations to enter into a treaty to establish equal rights for men and women throughout the world. Another resolution called upon Congress "to submit immediately to the States for ratification" an amendment providing for equal rights throughout the United States.

JUNE 10 LIMIT SET FOR MARKET PROBE

Counsel of Senate Committee to Present New Data By End of Week.

(Associated Press.)

Determined to complete before June 10, if possible, its investigation of stock market manipulation, the Senate banking committee has sent its corps of secret investigators back to Wall street for further sensations.

William A. Gray, committee counsel, has given assurance that he will have additional cases of stock manipulation ready for presentation Friday or Saturday of this week, and at the same time tie up the loose ends of some cases that have already shown the undercover workings of the market.

The committee has decided to complete the inquiry if possible by June 10 in order, to be ready to quit if Congress does at that time. There is a strong possibility, however, that if Congress meets after the party conventions the investigation will be continued.

Next Evidence Concealed.

Gray was instructed to complete the most important cases he can for presentation by that time. He said it would be impossible to finish some of the more important, but that he would offer as complete a picture of the market as possible within the time allotted to him.

The committee counsel would not reveal what he intends to present this week. He said it depends to some extent upon what progress his big corps of investigators and accountants make during the next few days.

Mr. Gray has already said, however, that he is investigating another big pool in Radio Corporation of America stock.

Two pools in this stock already have been described to the committee, one of which in 1929 made profits of $5,000,000 in seven days for a long list of prominent financial figures.

The pool on which he is now working came after that, Mr. Gray said.

Only Bear Raid Found.

Mr. Gray also has told the committee his investigators are working on a "bear pool" operated in Electric Autolite, which so far is the only so-called "bear raid" that has been uncovered.

One loose end to be gathered up involves Goldman-Sachs deal, in which $23,000,000 was paid for a company in which only $1,750,000 had been invested. This money was traced last week through a number of subsidiary organizations, but Mr. Gray said he would try to find its final disposition.

In general, the committee has instructed Mr. Gray to follow stocks, rather than individuals. But he is making a special inquiry into the account of Mrs. M. J. Meehan, wife of the broker, who was the specialist in Radio.

He has openly charged that this account was actually Meehan's, and said he could prove that in one deal it made about $5,000,000. Mr. Meehan himself, is on the way to Europe under physicians' orders, and probably will not return until the inquiry is over.

War With Japan Inevitable, Russian Grand Duke Feels

Chinese, Accustomed to "Living Off Fighting," Would Also Be Eager to Battle, He Says; Birth Control Is Held Remedy.

Editor's Note—The Grand Duke Alexander of Russia, cousin and brother-in-law of the late czar, believes that Russia and Japan are heading toward another war. The grand duke long has been a student of the problems of the Far East. He was head of Russia's concessions in Korea shortly before the Russo-Japanese war broke out in 1904. In the following dispatch the grand duke gives his reasons for believing that another Russo-Japanese war is inevitable.

By GRAND DUKE ALEXANDER.

(Copyright, 1932, by the United Press.)

Paris, May 22 (U. P.).—A famous Russian playwright said: "If there is a gun hanging on the wall in act 1, it ought to be fired before the final curtain. Otherwise, why have a gun at all?"

There are millions of guns "hanging on the walls" of Russia, Japan and China, and it does not take a great prophet to predict that the world will hear a lot more shooting in the Far East long before the "final curtain" falls. It could not be otherwise for the following four reasons:

(1) In China, he who does not participate in warfare does not eat. Notwithstanding the eloquence of the Oxford-and-Yale trained Chinese diplomats in Geneva, the fact remains that for the past 20 years the war lords were the only ones able to guarantee a-meal-a-day to a starving Chinaman. Nothing will nor can change this horrible situation unless the League of Nations suddenly gets enough money to stage a gigantic birth control campaign in that country overpopulated beyond all conceivable limits of imagination. With the Japanese against the Russians or with Russians against the Japanese, for Nanking against Peiping or for Peiping against Nanking, there shall always be millions of Chinamen ready and roaring to join any adventurer, visionary or enterprising bandit for the sake of getting a meager ration of rice.

(2) Insofar as Japan is concerned, its Manchuria-and-Siberia-bound drive constitutes as healthy an expression of its imperial instincts as the pioneers' march toward the Pacific was. In a world polluted by asinine theories and catchy phrases, the Japanese diplomats managed to keep their brains intact and their horizons clear. The so-called "humanitarian arguments" invariably sound flat in the Far East; in that part of the world bread is scarce but human life is plentiful.

(3) Then there is Russia. The omniscient foreign correspondents to the contrary, the international policies of the Soviets faithfully follow in the steps of those of the czars. While bitterly opposed to war just as the czars were, the leaders of the Communistic party will be forced to accept the Japanese challenge and to protect the Russian interests in eastern Siberia and Manchuria. At the same time there is not the remotest chance for any kind of a Russo-Japanese compromise. The conflict may be postponed for a year or two, but ultimately the spick-and-span soldiers now parading in Moscow and Tokyo will come to a bloody clash on the fields of Manchuria. Any other solution will be certain to jeopardize the existence of the present governments both in Russia and in Japan.

(4) And what of the great powers? The great powers who swore in half a dozen treaties to keep peace in the world and to safeguard the somewhat vague "interests of China?" The question is purely rhetorical, for it would be sheer lunacy for anyone to pretend that a coterie of corporation lawyers and former editorial writers masquerading as statesmen could dictate the actions of Japan and Russia or prevent a clash between these two express trains roaring in opposite directions on the same track. The ever tempting possibility of selling lots of munitions, oil and wheat will outweigh the array of "solemn treaties" on the scale of the great powers. The fact is that blood always makes the market rise.

Oregon Veterans Cling to Box Cars

En Route Here in Quest of Bonus, Their Train Stays in Midwest.

East St. Louis, Ill., May 22 (A.P.).—More than 300 World War veterans on their way from Portland, Oreg., to Washington to urge passage of a bonus bill by Congress, remained "camped" in the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad yards here tonight, stalemated by refusal of the railroad to move the freight train which they had boarded today for the remainder of their journey.

The freight train was scheduled to leave at midafternoon, but instead, some of the cars were disconnected and shunted back into the train sheds. Refrigerator cars containing perishable foodstuffs were among the twenty cars comprising the train.

ANIMAL-LIKE RACE FOUND IN PARAGUAY

Blond White Indians Seen in Primitive State by Harvard Explorer.

Buenos Aires, May 22 (A.P.).—The existence of white Indians with blond hair, who live like animals in the Grand Desert of northeastern Paraguay, was confirmed by Dr. Donald S. Wees, the Harvard Museum explorer, on his arrival here today.

Dr. Wees recently spent five months penetrating this alternate jungle and arid country from central northeastern Paraguay to the upper Brazilian frontier.

The explorer said that blond Indians with light complexions lived in the Grand Desert and the jungle. They are naked and are without homes, shelters or traps of any kind, subsisting on food gathered in the jungles or shot with bows and arrows. Dr. Wees obtained some of these crude weapons.

The explorer was unable to photograph the Indians, however. He said they were as shy as animals and every bit as dangerous. Their chief menace to the jungle traveler, he said, was their quest for horses and mules, which they sought for meat.

Those most familiar with the region told the explorer that all they had been able to overhear of the speech of these creatures resembled nothing of any tongue known to them.

White Indians previously have been vaguely reported in the Amazonian wilderness far to the northward, and these reports have not been conclusive enough to establish their contrast with the familiar South American Indian.

Dr. Wees would not venture an opinion as to the possibility that the creatures he saw were of Aryan origin.

STIMSON DISCUSSES POLICY WITH HOOVER

Gives to President Detailed Picture of Foreign Problems.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

President Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson exchanged their ideas and reviewed the trends in foreign and domestic policy in the secluded recesses of the Rapidan yesterday. For the first time since his return from the disarmament conference at Geneva, Col. Stimson was able to unfold unhurriedly the vast and complex panorama that underlies the entire European situation.

Political, economic and commerciti problems passed in review. Secretary Stimson, who has just returned after talking with Prime Minister MacDonald, former Premier Tardieu, Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Grandi, was able to give the President a picture of the reactions of these statesmen to the world problems which confront them.

The energetic measures taken by the President for the restoration of confidence and the recapture of stability also came in for considerable discussion, as the President realized that the common evils from which all nations are now suffering may well be cured by certain common remedies.

New Problems Discussed.

Secretary Stimson outlined the interdependence of all the problems that now beset Europe—disarmament, war debts, tariffs, reparations and economic depression. The talk between the President and Col. Stimson lengthened into hours and passed the bounds of continents. The new problems raised by the Far Eastern crisis were answered to a certain extent in the framework of the now historic "Hoover doctrine," which was first enunciated by Secretary Stimson in his open letter to Senator William E. Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee.

Col. Stimson was able to report to the President the enthusiastic response which this doctrine received on practically every side in Europe. The league itself immediately took a corrobpratory step and France, Great Britain and Italy formally and in personal conversations through their statesmen with Col. Stimson at Geneva did likewise.

While the Geneva disarmament conference is still sitting, the representatives of the chief European powers will meet in Lausanne in three weeks to discuss the problem of reparations. Although no attempt was made to draw Secretary Stimson into a discussion on war debts while he was in Europe, the imminence of the problem still made itself felt on every side. The position of this Government, as outlined by the Secretary himself some time before leaving for Geneva, was against any further action on the subject of war debts until Europe had first set her own house in order.

Economic Uneasiness.

The ever increasing economic uneasiness in Europe might well foreshadow some definite solution of the problem of reparations which would enable the European creditors of the United States to reduce armament and armament expenditures and to make some decisive and acceptable reduction of war debt charges.

Secretary Stimson had called on the President soon after his return from Geneva and had lunched with him at the White House. However, the concrete results of the Secretary's visit to Europe were not so important as the general reaction of his conversations.

These various problems were so intertwined that their explanation required considerably more time than the brief period of a luncheon or a conversation.

In many cases, too, the problems which Secretary Stimson had encountered in Europe had certain definite reciprocal effects on this side of the Atlantic and the President was eager to thoroughly canvass every angle of the difficulty.

Increase In Exports.

Alleviation of the economic emergency of central Europe may well result in an increase in American export trade, which has fallen off considerably in those areas due to the diminished purchasing power of the Danubian countries.

171 in House Give Beer Bill Support

O'Connor-Hull Measure Is Due to to Get Action in Branch Today.

Representative William E. Hull, of Peoria, Ill., felt confident yesterday that the O'Connor-Hull beer bill, due to come before the House today, will show a surprisingly large favorable vote.

He said 171 Representatives have pledged to support the bill and from 15 to 25 have indicated they would probably vote in favor of the bill to increase the alcoholic content of beer from one-half of 1 per cent to 2.75 per cent by weight, which is equal to 3.46 per cent by volume.

The bill provides for beer to be bottled in pints and sold in hotels and restaurants with meals and delivered to homes in cases. The tax will be 3 cents per pint, and, according to Representative Hull, from figures based on the volume of beer sold before prohibition, this will yield the Government $500,000,000 annually. It will be, if passed, a nonintoxicating beverage he said.

In Representative Hull's opinion, the bill will do more to bring the country back to a state of sobriety than any other measure.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

THOMAS AGAIN MADE SOCIALIST NOMINEE

Leader Defeats Confiscation Plan and Pledges War on Poverty.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 22 (A.P.).—Norman Thomas, of New Yoork, today was nominated Socialist candidate for President. His campaign, he assured the Socialist national convention here, will be a relentless war against Republican and Democratic parties and against "the kingdom of poverty."

Thomas, also the Socialist candidate in 1928, was chosen by acclamation to lead the party through another campaign.

James H. Maurer, of Pennsylvania, for sixteen years president of the Federation of Labor in this State, was named the party's candidate for Vice President. He, too, was chosen by acclamation after Mrs. Victor L. Berger, of Milwaukee, declined to accept a place on the ticket.

Defeats Confiscation Plan.

Thomas was nominated after he had defeated overwhelmingly a spirited effort to commit the Socialist party to a policy of confiscation of the principal industries of the Nation as a step in establishment of a Socialistic society. A group from California tried to insert the theory of confiscation into the platform.

"I would not care to be a candidate on the ticket of a party wedded to the idea of confiscation," Thomas said in an address to the 250 delegates. He urged them "to look out at the realities of the world, and to do nothing which would handicap the Socialist party at a time when it is enjoying vigorous growth."

"The enthusiasms of our impatient friends who would hasten the coming of the Socialist state by confiscation of property make needless trouble for us," he said. "They bring down on us the united opposition of the capitalist class. Even the Communists are not advocating confiscation."

Backed by Broun.

The suggestion that the State seize industries without compensation was advocated by William Busick of California, who urged that there is nothing shocking about it, because the theory of confiscation already is accepted by the American Government. Workmen who lose their homes and jobs are victims of confiscation by legal sanction, he contended.

After Thomas' appeal there remained little support for the California movement. The militant group of New York would have nothing to do with it, although one New Yorker, Heywood Broun, voted and spoke for it.

The platform now provides for the "transfer" of industries from private to government ownership, and such transfer would be accomplished by issuing industrial bonds to owners. Bonds would be retired by earnings of the industries, Mr. Thomas added.

Upholds Soviet Regime.

The convention voted a restrained indorsement of the Russian Soviet government after a rough-and-tumble debate lasting many hours. Some of the Russian experiment is good and much of it is bad, the convention held, as it finally drowned out the voices from the left wing, where there was a spirited demand that the Soviets be given a blanket indorsement.

The Russian resolution was sponsored by Paul Blanchard, of New York, director of the League for Industrial Democracy, and Oscar Ameringer, of Oklahoma.

The convention approved the system of planned production in Russia, but it did not sanction what many held to be a Russian disposition to deny civil liberty and ruthlessly to suppress minorities.

CUMMINGS ATTACKS FOES OF ROOSEVELT

Assures Chadbourne They Seek Preservation of Controlled Government.

New York, May 22 (A.P.).— An open attack on "the forces which are now putting forth their utmost efforts to destroy" Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and his presidential aspirations was made today by Homer Cummings, former Democratic national committee chairman.

"These forces are neither Republican nor Democratic," he said. "They operate upon no party principle. They are merely concerned with preserving a controlled government.

"If, with the aid of Democrats who ought to be in better business, they are able to throw our party into confusion and maneuver us into another Madison Square convention, they will be well content.

"Unworthy Conspiracy."

"That such an unworthy conspiracy will be permitted to prevail, I do not for a moment believe."

Cummings' attack was contained in a letter he wrote from his Stamford (Conn.) home to Thomas L. Chadbourne, attorney and self-labeled Progressive Democrat.

The letter was in reply to one Chadbourne had sent to Cummings nearly a month ago attacking Roosevelt's speech of April 7 in which the governor advocated relief for the "little man" and said funds of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation were "not for him," to which Cummings replied:

"Of course, I am aware you were 'shocked unspeakably' by the radio speech of April 7. The incident, however, affords so slight a basis for criticism that the censorious might conclude you (having decided to cooperate with the opposition) had been awaiting a convenient opportunity to be 'shocked.'

"Palliative Remedies" Scored.

"The exaggerated and somewhat hysterical assault which was made upon this speech merely indicates that in certain quarters, the impending nomination of Gov. Roosevelt is, to say the least, unwelcome. * * *

"The real difficulty with Gov. Roosevelt's radio speech was that it was distasteful to those who for more than a decade have been controlling the destines of the United States and who are, in a large measure at least, responsible for our present predicament.

"They do not like to have their palliative remedies correctly appraised. That they are palliatives is clearly indicated in your own letter."

He said that if the United States wants "a Government of privilege, an overlordship of special interests, in short, the kind of Government we have had continuously since 1921, then, of course, Franklin D. Roosevelt is not the man."

ROOSEVELT IS NOT A REAL WET, METHODIST DECLARES

we knew him as a dry. His wife, unless she has very recently changed her opinions, is a prohibitionist, and indeed has made prohibition speeches. Gov. Roosevelt is a man who has no natural sympathy with the saloon element.

"Furthermore, when the drys in his party were faced by the necessity of combating Raskob's atrocious proposal to put the national committee on record as wet, they defeated Raskob so decisively as to humiliate him, and it is putting the fact diplomatically to say that Gov. Roosevelt did not hinder them in that fight. The conflict between Roosevelt and Smith at the present time is a real one, with deep feeling behind it. It has not served to alienate Gov. Roosevelt from the drys in his party, who, indeed, constitute his chief support, inasmuch as Roosevelt strength has been principally in the South and West. The selection of the dry Senator Barkley as temporary chairman of the Democratic convention is another triumph for Roosevelt's friends over Raskob, who wanted Jouett Shouse.

Statements Long Delayed.

"So if, by any chance, Gov. Roosevelt were to be nominated and elected, we will have no reason to feel that prohibition has been repudiated. It is no particular compliment to a man to say that he has made a statement for political purposes only, and yet we can not get away from the assumption that Mr. Roosevelt did just that when he threw a sop to the wets recently. His statements were so long delayed that it may be surmised that he considered them necessary to hold his New York support, without which he would be helpless in the convention, and having made them, it is hoped that he will consider that his obligations to the wets in his party have been discharged."

Gov. Roosevelt, after setbacks in Massachusetts and California, is again making spectacular gains in his race for the Democratic presidential nomination. His supporters now claim more than 500 delegates for him, and predict that by the end of this week he will have 578, or a majority of the 1,154 delegates in the convention.

Strength in South and West.

As Mr. Pickett says, his strength is mainly in the South and the West. When four States in the solid South deserted Alfred E. Smith in 1928, the drys triumphantly contended that it was because of his wetness. Smith's friends, however, thought they knew better. They concluded that it was his religion.

As a matter of fact, Roosevelt has gone just as far as has Smith in his prohibition stand. Both advocate repeal. The only difference is in their treatment of the issue. Smith is rampant about it; Roosevelt rarely mentions it.

Pleases Both Sides.

Roosevelt has managed to please both wets and drys. In California, however, his position cost him plenty of votes. A campaign card was circulated which read something like this: "If you are wet, vote for Smith. If you are dry, vote for Garner. If you don't know what you are, vote for Roosevelt."

The wet and "don't know what you are" vote was split between Smith and Roosevelt, and Speaker Garner, thanks to a more or less solid dry vote, won California's 44 delegates.

Now, it is reported, the man who backed Garner, William G. McAdoo, is himself about to become a wet.

WARNING ON REVOLT THREAT IN U. S. SOUNDED BY ROOSEVELT

Cites Change Since 1928.

Pointing to the difference in social conditions today and in 1928, when the graduating class entered the university, the New Yorker said: "Four years ago many of your elders discovered once they accumulated a few dollars they needed only to put them in the proper place and then sit back and read in comfort stock quotations and their wealth was mounting miraculously without any work or effort on their part.

"Many who were called and who are still pleased to call themselves the leaders of finance celebrated and assured us of an eternal future for this easy mode of living. And to the stimulation of belief in this dazzling chimera was lent not only the voices of some of our public men in high office, but their influence and the material aid of the very instruments of Government which they controlled."

Again thrusting at groups "having special interests in our economic order," Roosevelt said:

"We can not allow our economic life to be controlled by that small group of men whose chief outlook upon the social welfare is tinctured by the fact that they can make huge profits from the lending of money and the marketing of securities—an outlook which deserves the adjectives 'selfish' and 'opportunist.'"

Urges Insuring of Needs.

Proclaiming that the necessities of life should be insured, Roosevelt said: "In such a system, the reward for the day's work will have to be greater and the reward to capital, particularly capital which is speculative, will have to be less."

Differing with the Hoover program to increase capital and stimulate business, Roosevelt declared: "Our basic trouble is an insufficient distribution of buying power coupled with an oversufficient speculation in production.

"While wages rose, they did not rise proportionately to the reward of capital, and at the same time the purchasing power of other great groups was permitted to shrink. We accumulated such a superabundance of capital that our great bankers were vying with each other, some of them employing questionable methods, in their efforts to lend this capital at home and abroad. I believe we are on the threshold of a fundamental change in our popular economic thought, that in the future we are going to think less about the producer and more about the consumer."

Views on Social Plan.

Roosevelt called for a social plan that would not only conserve production, but would influence the number of men and women entering the professions. In New York State, he added, there are about 7,000 teachers out of work because "nobody had the wit or forethought to tell them in their younger days that the profession of teaching was gravely overcrowded."

The presidential aspirant touched upon the moot question of monetary value and the equally pressing problem of the settlement of debts contracted at the time of prosperity.

"It is self evident that we must either restore commodities to the level approaching their dollar value of several years ago or else we must continue the destructive process of reducing, through defaults or through deliberate writing down, obligations assumed at a higher price level."

Roosevelt returned to Warm Springs after the speech. He announced he would leave for New York next Wednesday morning. He has been vacationing in Georgia three weeks.

Capital Man Is Held After Fatal Accident

Baltimore, May 22 (A.P.).—Alfred Burgess was instantly killed early today as he stepped from a slowly moving automobile into the path of a taxicab. He was pronounced dead when the taxicab driver, Ben Coleman, took him to the West Baltimore General Hospital.

Coleman and James Cox, of Washington, driver of the automobile in which Burgess had been riding, were arrested. Coleman, charged with assaulting and causing the death of Burgess, was released on his own recognizance. Cox was charged with reckless driving.

TREATY NEGOTIATOR IMPEACHED IN CHINA

Wang Ching-Wei Accused of Illegally Ending War in Shanghai Sector.

Nanking, China, May 22 (U.P.).—The once-powerful extremist leader, Wang Ching-Wei, was impeached today by the control Yuan (committee) of the Nanking government on charges of illegally negotiating the truce that ended warfare with Japan at Shanghai.

Wang is chairman of the judicial yuan, one of the three important branches of the Chinese government. He was perhaps the most powerful figure among the Cantonese who came to Nanking last winter, forced Chiang Kai-Shek out and formed a new government, only to split when faced with a new crisis.

The control yuan urged severe punishment for Wang. Its statement said the Shanghai truce was illegal because it was not sanctioned by the legislative yuan, which under Article 27 of the National organic law, has sole authority to declare war, to negotiate and to conclude treaties.

The present developments apparently indicate a split in the so-called Nanking element, which is headed by Chang and long has been the controlling factor in Chinese governmental affairs.

The action against Wang immediately followed reports that Foreign Minister Lo Wen-Kan, who was in charge of the peace negotiations, had resigned and was succeeded by Vice Foreign Minister Quo Tai-Chi.

ADM. SAITO TO FORM NEW TOKYO CABINET

gained in two terms, totaling ten years, as governor general of Korea.

He was suggested for the premiership by Prince Saionji, sole survivor of the Genro, or Elder Statesmen, after four days of consultation with the nation's most powerful leaders.

Admiral Motors to Tokyo.

The call to the palace reached the admiral while he was enjoying the Sunday sunshine at his seaside villa at Hayama, 50 miles southwest of Tokyo. He motored immediately to the capital.

Since retiring from the Korean governorship in 1931, Admiral Saito has lived mostly at Havana. He remained there throughout the past turbulent and panicky week, content apparently with the role of retired statesman.

Hence, while other prospective premiers were making slates for the cabinets they hoped to head, Admiral Saito was not prepared tonight to announce the personnel of the cabinet he was asked to head or even to indicate its general composition.

The reaction to his nomination was almost wholly favorable. He is recognized as free from the taint of political ambition. He has remained alike aloof from partisan politics and the reactionary elements loosely called Fascists.

Favorable Reception Seen.

Favorable reception abroad of his selection to be the next Japanese premier also was anticipated in official quarters, owing to his reputation as a moderate governor of Korea and as head of the Japanese delegation to the naval conference at Geneva in 1927.

Viscount Saito's summons to the palace followed closely a visit to the emperor by Prince Saionji, the venerable elder statesman who had come to Tokyo expressly to advise the emperor upon the choice of a premier to take the place made vacant by the assassination of Premier Suyoshi Inukai a week ago.

There was no intimation of whom he had in mind to recommend for the premiership after the aged prince held a series of conferences with leading public figures of the empire.

Garner Liberal Backers In Texas Ask Wet Plank

Houston, Tex., May 22 (A.P.).—Texas Democrats, solidly behind John N. Garner for the Presidency, were trying to settle a controversy on prohibition as they gathered here tonight for the State convention. What the outcome would be on a proposal by the liberal element in the party to have the convention tomorrow declare for repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment was in doubt.

Preconvention caucuses were held in an effort to eliminate any controversial issue that might precipitate a split in the otherwise solid front for the Texan, Speaker of the national House of Representatives.

U. S. STUDIES OFFER OF JAPAN ON CHINA

Tokyo Seeks Conference of Ambassadors to Plan Concerted Action.

(Associated Press.)

A proposal by Japan that the United States participate in a conference of ambassadors of the five powers principally interested in China is under consideration at the State Department.

The purpose of such a conference is to reach an agreement for common action in the protection of foreign lives and property in the Shanghai area and China generally.

After Japan consented to the evacuation of Shanghai without the creation of a neutral zone and other guarantees, the Japanese government made it clear it would depend upon other interested foreign powers to keep pace there.

This declaration was followed by the initiation of a movement by Premier Inukai to have a round table conference at Tokyo between the ambassadors of Great Britain, France, Italy, the United States and Japan.

Widespread Red Activity.

The suggestion was made to the United States before Premier Inukai was slain, but no agenda for the conference was suggested. The State Department has given no reply and is awaiting further details.

Communist activities, or activities which the Nanking government describes as communistic, have been widespread in Fukien, Anhwei and several other southern provinces of recent months.

As a result, Japan, Great Britain and the United States have had warships at Amoy, the chief port of Fukien Province, for weeks ready to evacuate foreigners if the antigovernment troops which control Changchow and other interior cities invade the city.

Amoy is 800 miles south of Shanghai. Resident foreigners and those who have fled there from interior points are concentrated chiefly on Kulangsu, an island in Amoy Harbor, which is an international settlement. The U. S. S. Tulsa is under orders to land bluejackets if necessary, upon the request of local officials and in cooperation with other foreign powers.

U. S. Policy Maintained.

The United States has always sought to avoid armed intervention in China and has confined its military activities on Chinese territory to measures necessary to the protection of the life and property of its citizens. This policy was adhered to even in the Boxer Rebellion, and it is unlikely that this Government will enter any joint agreement with other powers for the protection of foreign interests in China unless assurance is given that nothing will be done in contravention of this traditional policy.

The State Department has had no messages from Amoy for several days and Secretary Stimson is hopeful that it will be unnecessary to land sailors and evacuate the American citizens, most of whom are Filipinos. There are about twenty native-born Americans there, chiefly missionaries and employes of the Standard Oil Co.

Blast on Japanese Transport Averted

30 Chinese Coolies Seized as Fire Breaks Out at Shanghai.

Shanghai, China, May 22 (U.P.).—Huge stores of Japanese munitions in Shanghai were endangered today when a mysterious fire broke out on the Japanese army transport Bombay Maru. The Japanese authorities arrested 30 Chinese coolies at the wharf on suspicion of incendiarism.

The Bombay Maru was carrying a large store of eight-inch high explosive shells. It was moored alongside the South Manchurian Railroad Co. wharf on which were stored huge quantities of munitions and gasoline.

When fire broke out in the after holds, the ship was quickly moved 6 miles down the Whangpoo River and fire-fighters brought the blaze under control after a long battle.

The action of the Japanese authorities indicated they suspected the fire was another of the many recent acts of terrorism against Japanese officials and interest at home and abroad.

Tribes to Talk for Records.

Sydney, Australia, May 22 (A.P.).—A phonographic record of an aboriginal tribe that speaks mostly in hisses and grunts is the object of an expedition into Cape York Peninsula, in the far north of Australia, led by Donald Thomson, a scientist. The tribe's language is unlike that of other natives and can not be expressed by any letters known to man.

DEAN HELD INSIGNIFICANT IN LINDBERGH CASE HUNT

a hunt for the rumrunner who described two days before Charles Augustus Lindbergh, jr., was found dead, how the child had been killed and where the body had been secreted.

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, chief of the investigation, said the search was still going on.

Dr. John F. Condon, the "Jafsie" who paid the $50,000 ransom, abandoned for the day his attempt to find in some rogues' gallery the likeness of "John," the ransom-receiver.

Prisoner May Be Freed Today.

After spending yesterday afternoon and evening in an unexplained dash up into New England and back, he put in what was for him a normal day—church in the morning, a trip to a neighboring store, a chat on a street corner, a perusal of the newspapers, and then a ball game near his Bronx (New York City) home.

Meantime, a conference was held in the county jail at Flemington over the possible release of Curtis from the cell where he already had spent nearly 100 hours.

In the jail dining room, W. C. Pender, attorney who came from Norfolk to represent the shipbuilder, conferred with Adam O. Robbins, judge of the Court of Common Pleas.

As the session ended and Pender went to discuss the case with his client, Judge Robbins announced the prisoner probably would be released tomorrow, "if he can raise the bail."

Dobson-Peacock Firm.

Norfolk, Va., May 21 (A.P.).—From his pulpit in the fashionable Christ Episcopal Church, the Very Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock today reiterated his belief in the original story of the Lindbergh "negotiations" told to him by his associate, John Hughes Curtis, self-confessed hoaxer.

"I believed in Mr. Curtis' story at first. I still believe in it. I shall probably always believe in it," the minister said. Dean Dobson-Peacock, who spoke briefly on the subject of the faked negotiations just prior to his regular sermon, launched at attack against gossipers who, he said, were "guilty of sinning against the Holy Ghost" in attempting to take away a man's good name. He made no specific defense in his own behalf.

SIAM WOULD HALT WEDDING OF PRINCE

for some time Siamese Minister Amoradat. The marriage of the prince to a beautiful American girl might entail the forfeit of his immense inheritance, which is estimated in authoritative circles at several millions of dollars. It is certain that the marriage would be regarded as a strictly morganatic alliance and would not be recognized by the Siamese royal family as entitling the bride to any royal prerogative although she could use the title of princess.

Miss Baker is reported as denying her intention of marrying the prince until he has completed his college course. The prince is one of the young men of the royal family of Siam who have been sent here by the king for the technical education which American colleges and universities can give.

was treated for shock and exhaustion.

For more than three hours traffic in the vicinity was rerouted over the new Mount Vernon boulevard. The Highway Bridge was closed to all vehicles except buses and an extra detail of police was used to handle the large crowd that quickly gathered at the scene.

Hundreds of persons lined the river banks and the rail of the bridge was dotted with spectators. Shortly after dark a second launch from the Harbor Precinct was called, and at a late hour last night the crews of both police boats were still dragging the murky water in an effort to recover the body.

The drowned man's home was in Pittsburgh, Pa., and he had been a resident of this city for six months. He was employed as a clerk in Needle's shoe store, 1114 Seventh street northwest. Holober is employed as an interior decorator for the Hecht Co.

NEGRO GROUP HEARS U. S. IDLE AID PLEA

La Follette Raps Government Policy at Final Session of Association.

Closing exercises of the twenty-third annual conference of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People, held yesterday at the Washington Auditorium, were featured by an address by Senator Robert M. La Follette, who discussed economic questions. Work of the association was evaluated by Walter White, secretary, and Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson, president of Howard University.

Senator La Follette, tracing an "amazing cycle of expansion and speculation and a prosperity based on that speculation, wherein the credit of the United States was siphoned away from the Federal Reserve and through brokers' loans employed to finance an orgy on the stock exchange," drew a picture of resultant conditions.

He criticized the Government's policy of lending money through reconstruction finance organizations in a falling industrial market in an endeavor to bring about prosperity. "We could loan millions to the United States Steel Corporation," he said, "but it would mean nothing to prosperity unless the corporation had orders for steel." He advocated a Federal appropriation of $100,000,000 for relief of unemployment as, he said, a similar appropriation was made for relief of European conditions following the World War.

Secretary Wilbur's recent statement to the effect that children may profit from the depression was vigorously attacked by the senator.

After referring to Dr. Wilbur's speech, Senator LaFollette drew a contrast between that speech and the report of Karl de Schweinitz, a Philadelphia relief executive, before the Senate committee on manufactures, with reference to the period in Philadelphia, from April 11 to 22, when relief funds were exhausted. He told of families with but two meager meals a day, and of women who picked up vegetables that fell from wagons, while others begged for bread.

Dr. Johnson summed up the service of the association to the colored people as follows:

"It has given a purehearted and vigorous leadership in public affairs. From the beginning it has emphasized and kept before the colored people the necessity for giving attention to the attitude of the public order toward them. It has defined for the Negroes the objectives they should seek with reference to the public order. By carrying through strategic test cases in the courts, it has taught the colored people how to distinguish their friends in public life and how to cast intelligent votes within and across party lines. In my judgment, nothing could be more valuable to public life for the next twenty years than to have the kind of public activity represented by this association greatly intensified."

U. S. WILL SEND 653 TO NICARAGUA VOTE

rines now in Nicaragua by January 1 next.

The role of the electoral corps will be confined strictly to work in connection with the elections next November. It is now planned to have each one of the polling places, which number about 450, patrolled by an American marine in uniform and with small arms. The impression of force or of military display will be strenuously avoided by the orders which were communicated to Admiral Woodward. The final meeting between Secretary Stimson and the supervising admiral will take place today.

The United States has no interest in the personalities involved in the election and the sole aim of the electoral corps is to assure that the entire balloting will be accomplished without incident.

The elections this year in Nicaragua loom with more importance than any other previous vote-taking. The regime of President Moncada, which was inaugurated after the mission of Secretary Stimson, then colonel, to make peace between the warring factions will come to an end this year and his successor is expected to be the result of intensive electioneering.

At the present time the situation there has become slightly complicated due to the split in the Liberal party. Former President Adolfo Diaz has been reported at various times en route to the United States in a spectacular attempt to win the approval of the State Department as a conclusive argument in favor of his particular candidate. It is not regarded as likely that the State Department will officially receive the former Nicaraguan statesman as the department has persistently followed a "hands-off" policy with regard to all matters of internal Nicaraguan policy.

There is in Nicaragua a force of approximately 600 marines. These form the basis of the Guardia officers and maintain order in the country against the incursions of Gen. Sandino. In a recent speech which was made available here by Nicaraguan Charge d'Affaires Don Luis Debayle, the president of Nicaragua, Senor Moncada, exhorted the people of Nicaragua to defend their own homes themselves and rise to the protection of their farms and their folk. The speech of the president was motivated in part by the recent attacks of the Sandinistas against isolated outposts in which three American marines were killed.

The force of the electrical corps and the marines now on duty in Nicaragua will make a total force on duty there of approximately 1,300 marines.

This total is vastly inferior to the force of 5,000 marines dispatched to Nicaragua at the time of the last presidential election in 1928. The costs of that expedition were approximately $1,000,000 and the United States paid for almost all the cost except an item of $125,000 which was paid by the Nicaraguan government to defray the costs of the ballots and the polling places. The total election cost this year will be very considerably reduced.

Managua, Nicaragua, May 22 (A.P.).—Adolfo Diaz, former president of Nicaragua and Conservative party candidate in the next presidential election, took a plane for Cristobal, Canal Zone, today en route to New York and Washington.

TEXT OF HOOVER LETTER

The aid the Government may give includes:

(a) The quick, honest balancing of the Federal budget through drastic reduction of less necessary expenses and the minimum increase in taxes;

(b) The avoidance of issue of further Treasury securities as the very keystone of national and international confidence upon which all employment rests;

(c) The continuation of the work of the Reconstruction Corporation, which has overcome the financial strain on thousands of small banks, releasing credit to their communities, the strengthening of building and loan associations, the furnishing of credit to agriculture, the protection of trustee institutions and the support of financial stability of the railways;

(d) The expansion of credit by the Federal Reserve Banks;

(e) The organized translation of these credits into actualities for business and public bodies;

(f) Unceasing effort at sound strengthening of the foundations of agriculture;

(g) The continuation of such public works in aid to unemployment as do not place strain on the taxpayer and do not necessitate Government borrowing.

Continuation of Efforts.

(h) Continuation of national, community and individual efforts in relief of distress.

(i) The introduction of the five-day week in Government which would save the discharge of 100,000 employes and would add 30,000 to the present list.

(j) The passage of the home loan discount bank legislation which would protect home owners from foreclosure and would furnish millions of dollars of employment in home improvement without cost to the Treasury.

(k) Financial aid by means of loans from the Reconstruction Corporation to such States as, due to the long strain, are unable to continue to finance distress relief.

(l) The extension of the authority of the Reconstruction Corporation not only in a particular to which I called attention last December—that is, loans on sound security to industry where they would sustain and expand employment—but also in view of the further contraction of credit to increase its authority to expand the issue of its own securities up to $3,000,000,000 for the purpose of organized aid to "income producing" works throughout the Nation, both of public and private character.

Remote Usefulness.

The vice in that segment of the proposals made by your society and others for further expansion of "public works" is that they include public works of remote usefulness; they impose unbearable burdens upon the taxpayer; they unbalance the budget and demoralize Government credit. A larger and far more effective relief to unemployment at this stage can be secured by increased aid to "income-producing works."

I wish to emphasize this distinction between what for purposes of this discussion we may term "income-producing works" (also referred to as "self-liquidating works") on the one hand and nonproductive "public works" on the other. By "income-producing works" I mean such projects of States, counties and other subdivisions as waterworks, toll bridges, toll tunnels, docks and any other such activities which charge for their service and whose earning capacity provides a return upon the investment.

With the return of normal times, the bonds of such official bodies based upon such projects can be disposed of to the investing public and thus make the intervention of the Reconstruction Corporation purely an emergency activity. I include in this class aid to establish industry where it would sustain and increase employment with the safeguard that loans for these purposes should be made on sound security and the proprietors of such industries should provide a portion of the capital.

Nonproductive Works.

Nonproductive public works, in the sense of the term here used, includes public buildings, highways, streets, river and harbor improvement, military and Navy construction, &c., which bring no direct income and comparatively little relief to unemployment.

2. I can perhaps make this distinction clear by citing the example of the recent action of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in the matter of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company on one hand and the recent bill passed by the House of Representatives for increased road building on the other. The railroad company applied to the Reconstruction Corporation for a loan of $55,000,000 to help finance a fund of over $68,000,000 needed to electrify certain of its lines. By so doing it would employ directly and indirectly for one year more than 28,000 men distributed over twenty different States. An arrangement was concluded by which the Reconstruction Corporation undertook to stand behind the plan to the extent of $27,000,000, the railway company finding the balance. This $27,000,000 is to be loaned on sound securities and will be returned, capital and interest, to the corporation.

No Charge on Taxpayer.

The Reconstruction Corporation is acting as agent to make available otherwise timid capital for the Pennsylvania Railroad in providing employment. There is no charge upon the taxpayer. On the other hand, the proposal of the House of Representatives is to spend $132,000,000 for subsidies to the States for construction of highways. This would be a direct charge on the taxpayer. The total number of men to be directly employed is estimated at 35,000 and indirectly 20,000 more. In other words, by this action we would give employment to only 55,000 men at the expense by the Government of $132,000,000, which will never be recovered.

In the one instance, we recover the money advanced through the Reconstruction Corporation, we issue no Government bonds, we have no charge on the taxpayer. In the other instance we have not only a direct cost to the taxpayer but also a continuing maintenance charge, and, furthermore, the highways in many sections have now been expanded beyond immediate public need.

These proposals of huge expansion of "public works" have a vital relation to balancing the Federal budget and to the stabilizing of national credit. The financing of "income-producing works" by the Reconstruction Corporation is an investment operation, requires no congressional appropriation, does not unbalance the budget, is not a drain upon the Treasury, does not involve the direct issue of Government bonds, does not involve added burdens upon the taxpayer either now or in the future. It is an emergency operation which will liquidate itself with the return of the investor to the money markets.

Increased Appropriation.

The proposal to build nonproductive "public works" of the category I have described necessitates making increased appropriations by the Congress. These appropriations must be financed by immediate increased taxation or by the issuance of Government bonds. Whatever the method employed, they are inescapably a burden upon the taxpayer. If such a course is adopted beyond the amounts already provided in the budget now before Congress for the next fiscal year, it will upset all possibility of balancing the budget; it will destroy confidence in Government securities and make or the instability of the Government, which in result will deprive more people of employment than will be gained.

4. I have for many years advocated the speeding up of public works in times of depression as an aid to business and unemployment. That has been done upon a huge scale and is proceeding at as great a pace as fiscal stability will warrant. All branches of government — Federal, State and municipal—have greatly expanded their "public works" and have now reached a stage where they have anticipated the need for many such works for a long time to come. Therefore, the new projects which might be undertaken are of even more remote usefulness.

From January, 1930, to July 1, 1932, the Federal Government will have expended $1,500,000,000 on "public works." The budget for the next fiscal year carries a further $575,000,000 of such expenditures (compared with about $250,000,000 normal), and includes all the items I have felt justified by sound engineering and sound finance.

Increase of $1,200,000,000.

Thus by the end of next year the Federal Government will have expended over $2,000,000,000 on public works, which represents an increase over normal of perhaps $1,200,000,000. Thus we have largely anticipated the future and have rendered further expansion beyond our present program of very remote usefulness and certainly not justified for some time to come, even were there no fiscal difficulties. They represent building of a community beyond its necessities. We can not thus squander ourselves into prosperity.

5. A still further and overriding reason for not undertaking such programs of further expansion of Federal "public works" is evident if we examine the individual projects which might be undertaken from an engineering and economic point of view. The Federal "public works" now authorized by law cover works which it was intended to construct over a long term of years and embrace several projects which were not of immediate public usefulness. In any event, the total of such authorized projects still incomplete on the 1st of July will amount to perhaps $1,300,000,000. If we deduct from this at once the budgeted program for the next fiscal year—$575,000,000—we leave roughly $725,000,000 of such authorized works which would be open for action. If we examine these projects in detail, we find great deductions must be made from this sum.

Require Years to Complete.

Construction of many projects physically require years for completion, such as naval vessels, buildings, canalization of rivers, &c., and therefore as an engineering necessity this sum could only be expended over four or five years; a portion of the projects not already started will require legal and technical preparation and therefore could not be brought to the point of employment of labor during the next year; a portion of these authorized projects are outside continental United States and do not contribute to the solution of our problem; a portion are in localities where there is little unemployment; a portion are in the District of Columbia, where we already have a large increase in program for the next fiscal year and where no additional work could be justified. A portion are of remote utility and are not justified, such as extension of agricultural acreage at the present time.

Deducting all these cases from the actual list of authorized Federal public works, it will be found that there is less than $100,000,000 (and this is doubtful) which could be expended during the next fiscal year beyond the program in the budget. That means the employment of say less than 40,000 men. Thus the whole of these grandiose contentions of possible expansion of Federal "public works" fall absolutely to the ground for these reasons if there were no other.

If it is contemplated that we legislate more authorizations of new and unconsidered projects by Congress we shall find ourselves confronted by a log-rolling process which will include dredging of mud creeks, building of unwarranted postoffices, unprofitable irrigation projects, duplicate highways and a score of other unjustifiable activities.

Largely Transitory.

6. There is still another phase of this matter to which I would like to call attention. Employment in "public works" is largely transitory. It does not have a follow-up of continued employment, as is the case with "income-producing works." But of even more importance than this, the program I have proposed gives people employment in all parts of the country in their normal jobs under normal conditions, at the normal place of abode tends to reestablish normal processes in business and industry and will do so on a much larger scale than the projects proposed in the so-called "public works" program.

7. To sum up. It is generally agreed that the balancing of the Federal budget and unimpaired national credit is indispensable to the restoration of confidence and to the very start of economic recovery. The administration and Congress have pledged themselves to this end. A "public works" program such as is suggested by your committee and by others, through the issuance of Federal bonds, creates at once an enormous further deficit.

What is needed is the return of confidence and a capital market through which credit will flow in the thousand rills, with its result of employment and increased prices. That confidence will be only destroyed by action in these directions. These channels will continue clogged by fears if we continue attempts to issue large amounts of Government bonds for purposes of nonproductive works.

Fearful Price to Pay.

Such a program as these huge Federal loans for "public works" is a fearful price to pay in putting a few thousand men temporarily at work and dismissing many more thousands of others from their present employment. There is vivid proof of this since these proposals of public works financed by Government bonds were seriously advanced a few days ago. Since then United States Government bonds have shown marked weakness on the mere threat, and it is followed at once by a curtailment of the ability of States, municipalities and industry to issue bonds and thus a curtailment of activities which translate themselves into decreased employment.

It will serve no good purpose and will fool no one to try to cover appearances by resorting to a so-called "extraordinary budget." That device is well known. It brought the governments of certain foreign countries to the brink of financial disaster. It means a breach of faith to holders of all Government securities, and unsound financial program and a severe blow to returning confidence and further contraction of economic activities in the country.

What you want and what I want is to restore normal employment. I am confident that if the program I have proposed to the Congress is expeditiously completed and we have the cooperation of the whole community, we will attain the objective for which we have been searching so long.

000 to the States for road building as "nonproductive" public work.

"If it contemplated that we legislate more authorizations of new and unconsidered projects by Congress," he said, "we shall find ourselves confronted by a log-rolling process which will include dredging of mud creeks, building of unwarranted postoffices, unprofitable irrigation projects, duplicate highways and a score of other unjustifiable activities."

He maintained that employment on public works was mainly transitory and had no such follow-up employment as attends the development of "income-producing works."

"It is generally agreed," the President said, "that the balancing of the Federal budget and unimpaired national credit is indispensable to restoration of confidence and to the very staft of economic recovery. The administration and Congress have pledged themselves to this end. A 'public works' program such as is suggested by your committee and by others, through the issuance of Federal bonds, creates at once an enormous further deficit."

Will Not Fool Any One.

The Chief Executive declared that "it will fool no one" to try "to cover appearances by resorting to a so-called extraordinary budget." He said such devices had brought governments of certain foreign countries to the brink of financial disaster and would mean a breach of faith to holders of all Government securities.

"I am confident," he said in concluding his long letter, "that if the program I have proposed to Congress is expeditiously completed and we have the cooperation of the whole community, we will attain the objective for which we have been searching so long."

Former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, Republican.

William H. Crocker of San Francisco, a member of the Republican national committee.

Charles Nagel, St. Louis, Mo., Republican, Secretary of Commerce and Labor in the Taft administration.

Roland S. Morris, Philadelphia, Democrat, war-time Ambassador to Japan.

John Grier Hibben, retiring president of Princeton University. President Hibben is usually described as a Republican, although he supported John W. Davis for President in 1824.

The letter, addressed to the majority and minority leaders in both houses of Congress, follows:

Gentlemen: The undersigned view with so much concern the possible effect upon our social and political institutions of the grave economic and financial problems which confront the American people that, on behalf of vast numbers of our fellow citizens, we appeal through you to the members of the Senate and of the House of Representatives to lay aside every form of partisanship and of possible partisan advantage and quickly to unite to adopt a balanced Federal budget for the coming fiscal year, as well as to enact a plan of taxation which shall be economically sound, fair to every group and calling, and without discrimination or privilege or class or sectional advantage of any kind."

Copies were mailed, so that they arrived Saturday night, to Senator James E. Watson, Republican, majority leader, and Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Democrat, minority leader, in the Senate, and to Representative Charles R. Crisp, Democrat, acting chairman of the ways and means committee, and Representative Bertrand H. Snell, Republican, minority leader, in the House of Representatives.

The letter was made public today by the department of public information of Columbia University.

(Associated Press.)

Senate leaders in charge of the revenue bill bluntly reminded Alfred E. Smith, Nicholas Murray Butler and others who appealed for nonpartisan action in balancing the budget that the bill is receiving such consideration.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, in a letter replying to Mr. Butler, said: "There have been no signs of partisanship in Congress at any time this session on the economic program."

He recalled that the moratorium, Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the Glass-Steagall credit bill and now the revenue bill have been considered on a nonpartisan basis, "to the credit of Congress."

Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, Democratic floor leader on the tax bill, said: "At no stage has there been any partisanship either in the House or in the Senate on the vital budget balancing legislation. This legislation will be enacted and without any spirit of partisanship."

SENATE CHIEFTAINS WILL SPUR TAX BILL

during the week, and there is considerable confidence that this measure will be the basis for definite action.

Mr. Hoover has made it clear to the leaders that he expects no adjournment or recess until the vital budget-balancing legislation—the tax and economy bills—are passed. He wants that done before the fiscal year starts on July 1.

Senators Watson, of Indiana, and Robinson, of Arkansas, Republican and Democratic pilots, have no intention of quitting until the tax and economy measures are on the statute books.

Meanwhile, the Republicans are revamping their plans for the national convention. Senators Reed, of Pennsylvania, and Moses, of New Hampshire, who were to have leading roles in the national conclave, Saturday gave formal notice in a joint statement that they intended to remain at the Capitol and work, if necessary, to complete the program.

PRESS CLUB BRIDGE WINNERS ARE LISTED

Cups Will Be Given Leaders in Two Major Events of Tourney Played.

Compilation of the scoring records of the first two major events in the first annual contract bridge tournament of the National Press Club was completed yesterday and announcement made of the winners.

In the "Mr. and Mrs." pair contest played on Thursday night, north and south winners were Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Helwig, with Frank A. Connelly and Mrs. Dixie T. Wright as runners-up. East and west winners were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brayman, with Jay Hayden and Mrs. John I. Power as runners-up. Each of the members of the wininng pairs will receive a handsome silver cup offered by the club. Top score guest pins, especially designed for the club, were won by Mrs. Robert O. Jones and Mrs. Martin West. Top score pins in the auction event were won by Henry Miller and Mrs. D. E. Stephen.

In the selection pair contest of Friday night, played under the Howell movement, the winners were Henry Miller and Mrs. John D. Mothershed, their score being 111 out of a possible 171. The runners-up were Sidney Reisenstein and Everett Watkins, with Clinton Doggett and Mrs. Doggett third in the list of pairs. The prize in this event was the handsome Smith trophy, presented by Victor F. Smith, of New York, prominent writer on contract and recognized as one of the leading players of the country. The cup will remain with the club and be competed for in future annual tournaments. Replicas will go to the individual winners, and club cups to the runners-up.

Wide Interest Shown.

Wide interest has been shown in the tournament, as was indicated by the following telegram received from Ely Culbertson, foremost bridge authority and author of the approach-forcing system of bidding:

"On behalf of the Bridge World organization and the National Bridge Association permit me to extend my congratulations, and best wishes to the National Press Club in connection with your tournament. I remember with pleasure my visit to Washington and I wish all of you success. May there be a fair field and no favors and may the best man win. ELY CULBERTSON."

The tournament will conclude tomorrow night when the teams of four events will take place. The winners in this contest will be awarded the Culbertson Cup presented by Mr. Culbertson and which will also be played for at subsequent press club tournaments.

The feature of the tournament thus far was the play of board No. 18 in the "Mr. and Mrs." event, not only because of the unusual character of the hands, but the widely different bids made and the consequent range of the scores resulting.

Wide Difference in Scores.

With the north hand holding only clubs and diamonds and vulnerable, and east and west having all thirteen hearts and the ace of spades and not vulnerable, some grand slam bids of seven clubs were doubled and the declarer scored 2,430 points, while in one instance there was a redouble which increased the number of points won to 2,710. In several instances, east and west, not being vulnerable, made a sacrifice bid of seven hearts and took a doubled penalty of 200, less 100 for honors, and sustained a net loss of only 100. At another table a five-heart bid by east and west was doubled and made, resulting in a score of 800, which made a difference of 3,510 between the maximum and the minimum score on the hand.

The tournament is under the direction of Mrs. Louise Guest, one of the leading contract teachers of Washington, and a member of the winning team in the recent Culbertson convention contest in New York. She is being assisted by the following local bridge teachers: Mrs. D. E. Stephen, Mrs. Miriam Robinson, Mrs. Marian Barrs, Mrs. Dixie T. Wright, Mrs. Virginia Jones and Mrs. Agnes West, with George Carr, Wessel Stewart and Miss Geraldine Frost, of The Washington Post, having charge of the scoring.

The tournament is being promoted by John O. Williams, chairman of the games committee of the club, with Harry Crow, assistant manager of the club, in charge of floor arrangements.

SAFFELL CAMPAIGNS FOR BYRD ROAD ACT

Holds Arlington Will Gain by Remaining Under Its Provisions.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Declaring that a great saving to the taxpayers of Arlington County would result by remaining under the provisions of the Byrd road act, Harry C. Saffell says that he will carry on the fight until the election, which may be held August 9, for voters to decide whether the county will withdraw from the provisions of the act.

"I have not attempted to make any statements in favor of remaining under the provisions of this act that are not based on positive information which has been obtained by me from the State Highway Commission, which leads me to believe that I am right, and with the data I now have I propose to continue the fight up to the day of the election," Saffel said.

The State has, according to letters from the State highway commissioner to Mr. Saffell, during the last three years constructed 16.2 miles of roads at an approximate cost of $450 a mile.

A question put by Mr. Saffell to Commissioner Shirley had to do with the number of miles of road taken over by the State and funds expended on maintenance since taken over by the State. The answer was 24 miles at a cost of $115,000.

As to the amount of gasoline tax money the county has received from the State during the last five years, Shirley states as follows: June 30, 1927, $47,000; June 28, 1928, $61,820.33; June 30, 1929, $69,181.85; June 30, 1930, $78,672.08, and June 30, 1931, $78,355.55.

In addition to the gasoline funds received by the county, the State has expended $90,000 to acquire rights of way for the Lee boulevard.

While Mr. Saffell holds the county has an opportunity to save in taxes, those favoring the county withdrawing from the act claim two points. First, they are opposed to the centralization of power in Richmond over the county roads, and, second, there is no assurance that the county will have all of its side streets taken care of by the State. It is further contended that the cities maintain their roads, and as Arlington County is fast developing into a city, it is the view of those opposing remaining under the provisions of the act that Arlington County will gain nothing in the saving of road taxes.

The petition requesting the judge of the circuit court of Arlington County to call a special election is now being circulated over the entire county.

Taxpayers of Arlington County in the vicinity of Lyon Park will be assisted by Commissioner of Revenue Harry K. Green and his deputies tomorrow night from 7 to 9 o'clock at the Lyon Park drug store in preparing their personal property and income tax returns. Harry A. Fellows, chairman of the Arlington County board, is announced as the principal speaker at the monthly meeting of the Ballston Citizens Association. The meeting will be tomorrow evening in the auditorium of the Ballston Firemen's Hall.

Thomas H. Christie, member of the faculty at Washington-Lee High School, has been elected president of the Arlington County Teachers Association. The other officers are Miss Cecelia Alderton, of the Woodmont School, vice president; Miss Lillie Masoletti, of the Stonewall Jackson School, secretary, and Miss Mayme Snow Turner, of the Washington-Lee High School, treasurer.

Arlington County police were yesterday busy investigating the reported robbery at the Lyon Park drug store early yesterday morning. Entrance was gained by forcing a rear window. The police report that $11 and a quantity of cigarettes were taken.

The quarterly meeting of the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County will be held Wednesday afternoon at the Ballston Presbyterian Church. The meeting will be preceded by a luncheon at the church at 12:30 o'clock. Senator Gerald Nye, of North Dakota, is announced as the guest speaker. Other speakers will be Harry A. Fellows, chairman of the Arlington County Board, and Charles R. Fenwick, Washington attorney, resident of Falls Church.

A large delegation from Clarendon Rebekah Lodge, No. 28, will leave today to attend the annual sessions of the Rebekah assembly at Lynchburg, Va., today, tomorrow and Wednesday.

Tuberculosis Deaths Lower, but Rise Here

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—The tuberculosis death rate decreased in 43 of the 48 States in 1931, the National Tuberculosis Association announced today.

Arizona, the "cure" State, remains highest in death rate, with 276 persons dying of the disease per 100,000 population. However, its rate is lower by 59 points than last year. Nebraska is lowest of the State, with 21.7 deaths per 100,000. The five States with increased tubercular death rates are Delaware, Kansas, Nevada, North Dakota and Washington. There was an increase also in the District of Columbia.

Policeman and Men In Auto Stage Duel

Party in Car With Stolen Tags Makes Escape in Maryland Chase.

A Maryland State policeman last night figured in a running gun battle with several colored men along the Baltimore pike, near Beltsville, Md.

Officer C. R. Parker, attached to the Laurel substation, overtook a speeding machine and found it bearing license plates reported stolen from a Laurel garage. Several colored men, occupants of the car, refused to stop at his command and sped away when the policeman pulled up beside them.

The chase led several miles along the highway toward Baltimore. As Parker again drew near the fleeing machine, one of the men opened fire with a revolver. The officer brought his own gun into play and for more than five minutes the pursuit continued with the rapid firing of shots echoing throughout the countryside. The machine turned suddenly into a side road and escaped after Parker found his motorcycle unmanageable in the soft roadbed.

Two-Year Fugitive Caught in Virginia

Highway Accident Betrays Man Who Tunneled His Way Out of Jail.

Maddox was in an accident Saturday night on the Washington-Richmond highway near Accotink. He was taken to the Alexandria Hospital for treatment. He was recognized while there and was placed under arrest by Capt. Heywood J. Durrer, of the Fairfax County police.

He will be returned to the jail to serve out his unexpired term of six months for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. The three men who fled with him were soon captured and are still in jail.

Two Men Are Injured When Car Strikes Pole

Two men were injured last night when the car in which they were riding struck a telephone pole on Rockville pike at Garrett Park road. Thomas H. Benton, the driver, of Takoma Park, Md., was cut on the face, and his passenger, Earl DeHort, Takoma Park, was thrown through the windshield, suffering severe cuts on the head and face.

Both men were given first aid by Chief Val Wilson, of the Rockville Volunteer Fire Department and taken to Dr. C. E. Hawks' office in Rockville for treatment. Benton ran off the road in avoiding a collision with the car of George Neallis, Garrett Park, Md., who made a left turn into Garrett Park road in front of Benton. Both drivers were charged with reckless driving by Montgomery County Policeman Paul Watkins, of Rockville headquarters.

GOING INTO DEBT.

The granting of a loan to the Pennsylvania Railroad by the Reconstruction Corporation for construction work is in striking contrast to the plan of the Democratic relief committee to float a loan for $500,000,000 to be expended for public works.

In the first case the money will be returned, with interest, while in the meantime it will furnish work and a demand for all kinds of materials. In the second case the money would have to be repaid by taxpayers, and the construction work would not be productive of profit.

The President has been fixed in opposition to plans for borrowing money to be expended in nonproductive works. Doubtless he will stand opposed to the feature in the Democratic plan which would increase the public debt by $500,000,000. The budget can not be balanced by going into debt.

Any scheme that prevents the balancing of the budget is injurious to the public, because it prolongs uncertainty and prevents industry from making decisions for resumption of activity. The credit of the Government is involved, also; and if additional bonds are floated the price of bonds already outstanding will be jeopardized. What is needed, above all, is certainty; and next to certainty the assurance that Government credit will be unimpaired. How can private enterprise finance anything if Government bond issues are subject to depreciation by reason of failure to balance the budget?

Almost all of the plans broached in Congress for unemployment relief are proposals for going into debt. They are worse than nonsense. The Democratic relief plan, which has some acceptable features, is marred by the proposal to plunge the Government into debt just at the time when every effort is being made to bring tax revenue up to national needs. Either the Democratic plan should be scrapped or Congress should scrap the effort to balance the budget.

PARK SYSTEM CRIPPLED.

Two years ago the National Capital Park and Planning Commission was given $4,000,000, following an initial $1,000,000 appropriation, for the purchase of parks in the District of Columbia, and in Maryland and Virginia, under the terms of the Capper-Cramton act, which was passed in 1930.

The Commission has purchased such areas as seemed absolutely essential or such as could be secured at a low cost. The Commission has also entered into negotiations with Maryland and Virginia to carry out the park plans in the Washington region authorized by the bill. These are still in process of development. Maryland has already made available considerable money and securities to qualify for part of this appropriation. The last Virginia State Legislature authorized $50,000, of which half must be raised by the Counties in North Virginia in order to claim a like amount from this appropriation. To stop these negotiations would be unwise and inefficient.

The purchase of parks according to a well-conceived park plan can only be carried on efficiently when the responsible Commission can deal with owners, knowing that it can postpone purchases when prices are not right. The National Capital Park and Planning Commission could have spent legally every cent appropriated for park purchase, but in the interests of economy and efficiency the Commission has held a substantial part of its appropriation in hand for future dealing.

Probably through a misunderstanding of the real situation, there was offered on the floor of the House of Representatives on April 15, an amendment to the District of Columbia Appropriation Bill, to the effect that "until otherwise permitted by law" no further obligations shall be incurred under the Capper-Cramton Act, except "such as may be for reimbursement or necessarily incidental to the discharge of obligations heretofore incurred." This amendment was adopted by the House.

The amendment should be stricken out in the Senate in the interests of orderly, clear-cut procedure and in justice to the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, which has conserved its resources for economic and efficient purchases of park areas. At best the cooperative arrangements between Federal, State and District Governments require patient negotiation. Why should they be complicated by unnecessary confusion?

The unexpended balance of the appropriation made two years ago in the Independent Offices bill should continue to be at the disposal of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission. Washington should not be the victim of neglected purchases of parks until it becomes so congested that the cost of adequate parks is prohibitive. The Capital City is essentially a residential community grouped around the activities of the Federal Government. There is no reason why it should suffer from the same mistakes made earlier in our history by such industrial cities as New York, Chicago, St. Louis and others.

LEECHES IN CONGRESS.

Nepotism in Congress is especially distasteful in times like the present, when distress is widespread and the demand for economy in Government is urgent. Yet the careful critic will be slow to condemn all members of Congress who have relatives on the legislative payrolls. No sweeping generalizations can be drawn. Each individual case must stand on its own merits.

Approximately 100 representatives have clerks or secretaries bearing the same names as themselves. This list does not, of course, include in-laws or other relatives with different names. It is apparent that the employment of relatives is a favorite practice on Capitol Hill.

The mere employment of a relative, however, is not the question in which the public is interested. It is entirely proper for a member of Congress to give a job to a relative, and it is foolish to propose any measures that would deny him that privilege. Consanguinity is not the test of a clerk's ability, and can not be made such. Some members of Congress used their sons, daughters, nephews, &c., as secretaries and stenographers before they were elected to office. The public interests are not jeopardized if they continue to do so.

Legitimate criticism applies only in those cases where relatives are given salaries as employes of Congress without rendering service therefor. For many years Speaker Garner has employed Mrs. Garner as his secretary. She is a diligent worker and earns more than her salary. On the other hand, many representatives carry their wives, sons or daughters on the payroll when they render no service whatsoever, many of them not even being in Washington. Such a breach of public trust can not be easily condoned.

If representatives are allowed more secretarial help than they need it is time to use the pruning knife. The question is not one of cutting relatives of congressmen off the payrolls, but of eliminating useless positions. Or it may be a redistribution of secretarial help that is needed, since some of the clerks of the more prominent committees are overburdened with work.

Publication of the House payrolls will have a salutary effect. Congressmen will not be disposed to keep on their payrolls relatives who do no work when jobless constituents knock at their doors, carrying newspaper clippings that expose each specific case of nepotism. A considerable number of functionless relatives were cut off in anticipation that the records would be made public.

GERMANY FACES FRANCE.

The Lausanne conference next month promises to be the third futile conclave of European nations in as many months. Some of the differences that have prevented agreement on disarmament at Geneva, and united action in London with regard to a Danubian policy, will interfere with unison when the same nations foregather in Switzerland.

With the question of reparations the overshadowing issue, Germany is the only nation that has made a definite statement of position. Chancellor Bruening's recent reiteration of the determination of the Reich that it will not make further reparation payments spells failure of any possible agreement with France.

There have been many expressions of hope that the Herriot victory in the recent French elections would mark the inauguration of a more liberal international policy, but such expectations do not count upon the overwhelming sentiment of the French people, which is as strong today as ever in insisting upon reparation payments and the maintenance of French military preponderance.

Observers of French feeling since the elections in Germany report a temporary easing of the tension over the gains made by Hitlerism. The French people do not believe that the Fascists can carry through their program successfully, but there is also found a deep-seated conviction that Germany will not settle down to the gradual establishment of a stable government until the Hitlerites have achieved power and failed in their radical aims.

To those who followed the French political campaign last month it was evident that M. Tardieu was not defeated because of his stand for reparations and security. No word of opposition to these policies was uttered by M. Herriot. Every well-informed French leader knows that he could not form a government opposing these policies and receive a vote of confidence from the new Chamber of Deputies. This is further shown by the realization of Herriot's fears that the demands of M. Blum and his Socialists for armament reductions would make the formation of a Left Cartel possible.

The Lausanne conference, repeatedly postponed since January, will meet to consider not only reparations and war debts, but "other economic and financial difficulties which are responsible for and may prolong the present world crisis." Fourteen European nations are to participate. Upon the "other" questions useful agreements may be reached. It is evident, however, that the great stumbling blocks of reparations and armaments can no more be removed at Lausanne than the divergent views of France and Germany can be reconciled separately. Lausanne is destined to witness just another European conference.

It must be evident, also, that Germany's announcement that she can not pay further reparations does not settle the question. She is obligated by treaty to pay, and there are decided differences of opinion in France as to her ability to do so. France, furthermore, is in a position to exact compliance to whatever degree she deems expedient. Whether she will continue to demand cash or payments in kind, and whether, failing to secure German compliance by negotiation, she will again resort to military occupation of German territory, may be decided before many weeks have passed. The temper of the French people is such as to make it inconceivable that Germany will escape further reparation payments by the simple expedient of saying she can not and will not pay.

EUROPE'S SORE SPOT.

Irritation among both Germans and Poles over the Polish corridor continues to be a constant menace to peaceful relations. This unnatural wedge between Germany and East Prussia, with its conflicting racial interests, is still further complicated by the peculiar government of the free city of Danzig, which is the scene of current threats of disturbance.

Strained relations exist between the German population of Danzig and Polish residents there, who have systematically withheld patronage from recreation resorts and who are boycotting some Danzig commodities. The Polish government is also reported to be considering the transfer of the repair work of its warships to Libau, Latvia.

Added to many minor differences Danzig has been stirred recently by the publication of reports in German newspapers that Polish organizations in the corridor, armed with all forms of modern equipment, were planning the capture of the free city. President Ernst Ziehm announces that Danzig is and will remain a German city, and he is supported by several warnings which the German government has sent to Poland, asserting that threats of Polish citizens were endangering peaceful relations.

While the Berlin authorities do not intimate that the Polish government encourages any movement against Danzig, the foreign office has been emphatic in stating that any attempt to take the free city would be quickly opposed by Berlin. The Hitler storm troops have been an added thorn to the Polish population of Danzig. They did not come under the ban on uniformed troops, but resentment has been somewhat allayed since the National Socialists gave up their uniforms at the suggestion of the high commissioner of the League of Nations. Danzig is quiet, but friction between the German and Polish resident remains a source of irritation and danger.

LEGALIZED RACKETEERING

From the Wadena (Minn.) Pioneer Journal.

Two-thirds of the present members of the U. S. Senate are lawyers by profession. Upon being elevated to a seat in the Senate it is a rare exception for a senator to quit the practice of his profession and devote himself exclusively to his legislative work. On the contrary, he invariably maintains his law offices at home, using the prestige of his senatorial position to enhance the business of his law firm, many senators becoming commuters between the Nation's Capital and the old home town.

In recent years all Federal judgeships have come to be regarded as strictly senatorial patronage. Nominally, of course, the Attorney General is supposed to investigate the qualifications of applicants and to recommend the appointment of a suitable person to the President, who, under the Constitution, makes the appointment. Inasmuch as the Senate is vested with the power of confirmation or rejection of the nominee, no Attorney General would have the temerity to suggest to the President the appointment of a judge who did not have the unqualified endorsement of the senator or senators from his State. In other words, while the President ostensibly makes the appointment, the selection is actually made by the senators.

The law firm of a senator having business in the court of a judge who was selected by the senator is thus given a most decided advantage in any litigation. The ambition of practically every lawyer is to wear the ermine of a Federal judge and when he has realized that ambition it is only natural that he should welcome an opportunity to show his gratitude to his senatorial benefactor. There have been many flagrant cases, especially in our larger cities, of the rankest favoritism on the part of judges towards the members of a senator's law firm, not only in the way of favorable rulings in the conduct of trials, but also in the appointment of receivers, referees and special masters and in the allowance of fees. Wise litigants, and especially corporations, are quick to recognize existing conditions and the services of a senator's law firm are always in demand in our Federal courts.

It is high time that this unfair and indecent advantage enjoyed by senators engaged in the practice of law should be summarily stopped, if we are to escape a scandal of national proportions. A reform in the method of appointing Federal judges must be inaugurated without delay. For the honor and sanctity of the judiciary, no judge should owe his appointment to any man who practices law in his court. The present system smacks of racketeering and contravenes every fundamental principle of common decency. If the people are to retain confidence in the integrity of the judiciary, which is supposed to form the sheet anchor of the citizen's rights and liberties, our judicial tribunals must be freed of the incubus of doubt and suspician placed upon them by certain senators, whose sense of propriety has been completely blinded by considerations of a purely mercenary character.

What's wrong with the picture? General realization that a sales tax is the way out, and no way to get it.

Democratic incongruity: Tariffs in the tax bill, Jouett Shouse a member of the Kansas Roosevelt delegation, Speaker Garner's bond issue fifty times the House economy bill.

MUSHROOMS.

Do not depend on so-called tests for distinguishing between poisonous and edible mushrooms, warns the United States Department of Agriculture. It is not true that only poisonous mushrooms will tarnish a silver coin placed in the utensil in which they are cooked, or that they will become edible if soaked or boiled in salt water. Neither are mushrooms that peel readily always edible. Insects on mushrooms are no guide to their edibility—insects infest both poisonous and edible mushrooms. It is not safe, says the department, to eat young, unopened "buttons," as it is difficult to distinguish between poisonous and edible mushrooms in the early stages.

JUST FOLKS

THE DOORWAY.

Walls for pictures, shelves for books,
Windows for the morning sun;
Here and there are little nooks
For the trinkets we have won.
Roof to brave the tempest's roar
When the winter days begin,
But make beautiful the door
Which will let the good friends in.

Master Architect, I say,
Make the rafters strong and stout;
In your own artistic way
Plan the building, in and out;
But, as I have said before,
If my gratitude you'd win,
Give my house a graceful door,
Wide for friends to enter in.

Make my door a smiling thing,
Not a frowning space and glum.
Let it have a welcoming swing
For all visitors who come;
Let it seem to put at ease
All who seek to step within.
Make my doorway, if you please,
Wide for friends to enter in.

Civilization Isn't a Blessing to Heathens Who Die of Its Vices

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE love of money corrupts and destroys all human institutions.

The story of every great religion is a story of an unselfish teacher whose creed gave way to empty ritual as his followers battled for power and place and a "cut of the gate."

That is also the story of man's struggle for liberty.

Other gain is forgotten while men risk their necks for freedom; but the moment their masters are safely hanged and tyranny ended, they leave public business to shysters and devote themselves to trade and trickery until they are enslaved again.

When America was young and her citizens proud of their new-won freedom, men divided themselves into political parties because they held conflicting opinions concerning matters of vital interest—policies of State, economic theories, methods of government, standards of morality and definitions of justice and right.

Men voted for principles, and the success of a candidate was the success of a cause.

Now we have parties without principle and candidates without purpose.

The two "great political parties" are nothing more than job-hunting organizations, neither of them committed to a cause or a principle, and the one concern of party leaders and public servants is to keep their place on the public pay roll.

The love of money has done its usual work.

Citizens of all classes, knowing the Government is pledged to no cause of policy except that dictated by expediency and present fears, organize themselves in groups to coerce and dominate it.

But these organized groups are not inspired by a passion to serve the country. With one or two possible exceptions, their sole purpose and desire is to raid the public treasury or win a special privilege.

The lust for money has blinded this people to all other concerns; and though innumerable social problems cry aloud for solution, the only citizens who organize to influence the Government are those who want an appropriation and those who would solve the problem of taxation by shifting the burden to somebody else.

What can we buy with money to compensate for the shame and corruption and degradation and bankruptcy of character it has cost us?

Drink Yourself Rich.

Hibbing (Minn.) Tribune.

We respectfully suggest this slogan for the wets: "Drink yourself rich!" Boiled down to three words, this slogan is the argument which is being urged in high places for the restoration of intoxicating beer as a legalized drink. Millions of us haven't the price of a meal, but make beer lawful and we will drink so much of it that the tax on it will amount to $2,000,000,000 a year. The budget will be balanced, the Government's difficulties will vanish, and prosperity will be upon us again almost in one swallow. In other words, we shall "drink ourselves rich."

Congress' Opportunity.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

Now let Congress appeal to the country for a mandate to spend money like drunken sailors, and they will learn their place as representatives of the people.

Poor Politics.

Detroit Free Press.

"Swat-the-Dry" stamps are being sold in New York to raise a $5,000,000 campaign fund to defeat prohibition. They depict dry candidates as insects. Scurrility is no prettier when indulged in by wets than when drys indulge in it.

Revenue Delayed.

Baltimore Sun.

The deliberation with which Congress has moved to enact new revenue legislation has already cost the Federal Treasury an appreciable sum of money. Had a revenue bill been whipped into shape during the winter and passed early in the spring, collections on the new excises would have begun already to pour into the Treasury, and the deficit for the current fiscal year would have been correspondingly reduced. Failure to enact the new tax bill before the national conventions would mean a further loss of revenue in the fiscal year to begin July 1, and an intensification of the financial difficulties to escape which the tax bill was framed.

To guard against this by the prompt adoption of the tax bill in a form designed to produce the necessary revenue should be the first concern of the Senate leadership and of the rank and file as well.

Congress, Go Home.

Atlanta Constitution.

Unquestionably there will be general relief throughout the country when Congress completes its work and goes home. Whatever it may do can be no worse than the condition of uncertainty created by the bungling and backfiring which has marked consideration of taxation, relief and economy measures.

We would at least know then what is to be faced and our financial and business interest and the people themselves could go about the business of rehabilitation without the constant fear of having their efforts undone through political dabbling and dilly-dallying.

Tammany Handicap.

The Tammany investigation is doubly interesting—and important—because of its relation to a leading candidate for the Presidency. Gov. Roosevelt's dilemma with respect to the powerful New York organization becomes more and more acute. He has taken several definite and important steps in sequence to Tammany exposures, but he has not definitely broken with the Hall. Neither the governor nor Tammany is satisfactory to the other, but common interest may hold them together politically. But as the time of the national convention draws near, Tammany becomes a heavier handicap for the candidate, for Tammany corruption and the manner of dealing with it again are holding national attention as they so often have before. A nomination with Tammany support, at least if dependent on Tammany support, would create a Tammany issue in the presidential campaign.

Stop! Stop!

Los Angeles Times.

When Al Smith threw his derby into the ring, he started to stop the Roosevelt movement. Then Roosevelt took in more territory in New Hampshire and North Dakota to stop the stop-Roosevelt momentum. Again Al went into action in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania to stop the stop-the-stop-Roosevelt program. Comes now California as stopper of the stop-the-stop-the-stop-Roosevelt campaign—until Roosevelt hardly knows whether he is going or coming.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Hospital Director Tells of Conditions Before Prohibition; Says Children Suffered.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Advocates of repeal should note the recent address of Dr. Katherine Richardson at Kansas City. The speaker is at the head of one of the largest hospitals for children in the Middle West. She said in part: "Thirty years ago there was not a day at the hospital when we were not fighting the liquor question. There was not a day that some child did not come in, beaten, or burned, or scarred because of liquor." Drunken parents, she declared, injured and sometimes killed innocent and helpless babies. Referring to the saloons, she asserted, "I could tell of case after case of searching in saloons for neglected children."

The Topeka Capital, praising Dr. Richardson's address, says: "Anything definitely good for the children of America is good for America. They can not speak for themselves, but social workers and children's hospitals speak for them."

It seems clear that every vote for the restoration of the old conditions is a vote against the welfare of American childhood. W. P. F.

Scientificus Discusses Neutrons and Cosmic Rays.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: While the controversy over the cosmic ray continues between the world's eminent scientists, new light is shed on the subject by two independent investigators. Dr. James Chadwick, long an assistant of Lord Rutherford, discovered the neutron a few months ago. The neutron, according to the recent announcement, appears to be a system, rather than a particle, composed of a proton or hydrogen nucleus and an electron. The hydrogen atom is similarly made up, yet in the neutron the two parts are very much closer together. If they could be pried apart, leaving more space between, the resulting atom, a hydrogen atom, would be quite a different thing. The neutron is, therefore, thought of as possible embryonic hydrogen.

The neutron was discovered by firing alpha particles, shot out by polonium, at beryllium atoms. No man-made bullet can go fast enough to destroy an atom, but the alpha particles travel at such speed that they are able to partly destroy the atoms. The startling discovery was thus made that when nitrogen, boron, fluorine, sodium and other elements were bombarded by alpha particles and the protons were knocked out, they were always hydrogen nuclei, no matter what the element.

This discovery led Bothe, of the University of Giessen, to continue the experiment. He found that when beryllium was bombarded by the alpha particles and the atom was hit, an unknown type of carbon atom was created. Bothe, by converting beryllium into carbon, had built up a new element, for carbon is more complex than beryllium. Thus on the one hand Rutherford and Chadwick had broken down nitrogen and other elements into hydrogen, and on the other Bothe had built up a new element.

According to Einstein, mass and energy are convertible into each other so the conversion of beryllium into carbon, which is a more loosely packed atom, would leave a little matter over. This matter, Einstein theorized, would be dissipated as energy. In actual fact, the radiation was found by Bothe, its rays being so strong they could go through three inches of iron and still retain most of their energy. This discovery has set scientists to wondering if cosmic rays may not be this same type of radiation. If such is the case, Prof. Millikan's much disputed contention has been verified. SCIENTIFICUS.

Members of Congress on Trial as Never Before; a Test of Patriotism.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Members of Congress are on trial before the bar of public opinion. If they do not realize that the temper of the American people is in no mood for further exhibitions of petty politics or personal preferment they will receive a rude awakening.

Nothing will lend such prompt and efficient aid to national recovery than for the national legislature to balance the budget, pass the necessary appropriation bills and adjourn.

The country has become alarmed at what this Congress may do. The endless procession of financial and economic panaceas introduced has undermined trust in its wisdom. It is inconceivable that in the end the sober judgment of a majority of members of the Senate and House will be carried away with the enthusiasm that has surrounded some of the impractical measures for doling out billions of Government money without due consideration of the inevitable effect they would have upon the credit of the Nation and upon the taxpayers.

It should be plain by this time to Congress that the vital need of the country now is to be relieved of uncertainty. Eventually a tax bill must be adopted, supplemented by economies in Federal expenditures, that will combine to assure an equalization of Government revenues and expenditures.

One of the remarkable features of this session is the failure of so many legislators to understand the simple, fundamental differences between embarking the Nation upon a dangerous course of free distribution of Federal funds and the loan of money for productive enterprises. In the first case, the money must be paid back through taxes; it is spent and dissipated for temporary relief, and the burden of repayment remains. But by financing projects that will immediately begin to enjoy an income, the loan will be liquidated without encumbering the taxpayers, and yet the same benefits will accrue to labor and those who furnish supplies. LAWSON SMITH.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

PARABOLIC microphones, recently introduced into radio, will enable engineers to pick up voices of speakers seated among the various delegations at the national conventions in Chicago next month. These microphones are directional, and as soon as a speaker arises among the delegations, the microphone will be turned upon him, much as a spot light is thrown upon an actor on the stage. These microphones also will be used for crowd noises. Twelve separate microphones, a record number, will be used.

The English nightingale, which last year made radio history by singing from his native woods to a transatlantic audience, may be heard by American listeners again today.

Because of far from commendable temperament it will not be possible to schedule the bird's song at any definite time. The first attempt will be made between 4:35 and 6 p. m., and if the nightingale can not be persuaded to sing within that period, further attempts will be made later in the week. WMAL will carry its previously scheduled programs, breaking in only if the nightingale performs.

The microphones will be hidden in bushes in Pangbourne Woods, Berkshire, and connected up with a control point in a small, dimly illuminated hut erected in lonely clearing. Then the British Broadcasting Corporation engineers will set themselves to wait until the nightingale decides to lift his voice in song. A dance band will be playing in the London studios and at the first note of song the international circuit will be completed by Columbia engineers listening in via short wave from this side the Atlantic.

TOMORROW the NBC will attempt an hour's rebroadcast from England, when the Empire day ball, important British social and national function, attended by the royal family, will be described for listeners in the United States over a network, including WRC, 3:15 p. m.

The broadcast will originate in the Mayfair Hotel, where representatives of the British dominions will gather with London's social elite for the holiday celebration. Empire day, known also as Victoria day, is a universal holiday throughout the British Empire. It honors the late Queen Victoria, on whose birthdate it falls.

Formal services for deceased members of the United States Senate and House of Representatives, to be held in the House on Wednesday, will be heard over WMAL, beginning at 12 o'clock noon.

The Mayflower Quartet, Washington's newest singing group, will make their first public appearance Monday night at 7 o'clock over station WRC, when they substitute for the Tarwater Sisters on the D. C. Dental Society program.

The quartet is composed of Lillian R. Latham, soprano soloist of Epiphany Church; Esther Strite, contralto soloist of Petworth Baptist Church; H. Ivan Maycock, tenor soloist of Christ Church in Alexandria, and Edwin Callow, bass soloist of St. Thomas Episcopal Church. Marjorie Davis is accompanist.

The Tarwater Sisters will be back on the program on Thursday at 6:30 p. m.

MANY Washingtonians who have derived great pleasure from the Slumber Hour periods conducted by Ludwig Laurier will be sorry to learn that he will conduct this program for the last times this week.

Mr. Laurier, who originated the Slumber Hour several years ago, has been its only conductor. For several months in the beginning Milton J. Cross was the sole announcer, and the Laurier-Cross combination soon become one of the most famous on the air.

Then the program was cut from the original hour to a half hour, and Mr. Cross, because of added duties, found it increasingly hard to announce the hour each day. However, he still finds time to return to the program a night or two each week, singing the well-known "Slumber Song," to which he has exclusive performing rights.

At the end of the week Mr. Laurier is leaving the NBC, and the program will pass into the hands of Cesare Sodero. We can only thank the kindly, genial maestro for many delightful hours of beautifully played music and wish him well. May the future not separate him from radio!

Colorado's part in the making of the Republic will be related in the Parade of the States program (WRC, 8:30 p. m.) when Erno Rapee presents a musical half-hour redolent of Rocky Mountain tradition and atmosphere.

A Hungarian's impressions of "Moonlight On the Colorado" will be played for the first time on the air by Rapee's Concert Orchestra as a symphonic paraphrase. The composer is Desider d'Antalffy. Cecil Burleigh's "Up the Canyon," "The Rocky Mountains at Night, Daybreak and Sun-Up" and Pearl Curran's "Dawn" are also on the program.

THE program featuring Guy Lombardo's Orchestra and Burns and Allen, which has been a Monday night feature of WMAL for more than two years, hereafter will be broadcast on Wednesdays at 8 p. m. * * * Jacques Wolfe, prominent composer of Negro spirituals, including "De Glory Road," "Shortenin' Bread" and "Sailor Men," will be the feature of the musical Americana program tomorrow (WMAL, 2:30 p. m.). * * * Ruth Etting, now featured on the "Music That Satisfies" programs, will be interviewed before the microphone for the first time by Bob Taplinger when the "Meet the Artist" program is presented tomorrow (WMAL, 4:15 p. m.). * * * Grace Hayes will be heard as guest artist on the Goodyear program on Wednesday (WRC, 8 p. m.). * * * Lawrence Tibbett will sing "The Song of the Vagabonds," "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," "Evening Star," from Tannahauser, and "On the Road to Mandalay" tonight (WRC, 7:30 o'clock). * * * The Musical Fast Freight has changed its running schedule to Tuesday and Thursday (WMAL, 9:15 p. m.). Organist Eddie Dunstedter continues to be featured.

A broad gauge relief program will be discussed by Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, during the National Radio Forum tonight (WRC, 9 o'clock). Senator Pittman's views are regarded as of unusual interest, as he is a member of a subcommittee of the Democratic steering committee, which has drafted a bill to cover the relief program.

The Boswell Sisters will sing of Dixie and a "Cabin in the Cotton" tonight (WMAL, 9:30 o'clock). Connie, Martha and Vet also will sing "Dog-gone, I've Fallen in Love" and "There'll Be Some Changes Made."

IN five years of broadcasting, Jessica Dragonette, soprano, has memorized more than 500 songs and the lead roles of 75 operettas. Miss Dragonette is one of the few artists who do not use notes while broadcasting.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Blue and white stripes fashion a chic town sports ensemble for warmer days. The belt is blue and white kid. (Courtesy of the Maison Heim, Paris.)

NEW YORK, May 22.—In the days of King Edward IV, broadcloth and jersey were the two great staple fabrics of the country. In order to prevent fraud and to establish a reputation, for which British woolens have been famous for centuries, the king promulgated a set of standards and regulations to which all cloth makers were obliged to adhere rigidly. The laws regulated the width, the admixture of various grades of wool, &c., and any violation was punished by imprisonment or spanking or both. A chronicle in a recent publication gives this old news item: "London, April 10, 1470—King Edward IV today spanked a prominent woolen manufacturer for failure to maintain the standard of quality laid down by the rules and regulations of the Crown." Ho hum, wouldn't I like to spank the manufacturer who spun the silk of my beautifully embroidered Japanese kimona, which fell into shreds in such a short time!

* * * *

'N' what did I tell you—white is so popular and shows every evidence of continuing its popularity throughout the summer. White pique cluster boutonnieres are favored in Paris—mostly clusters of narcissus, cyclamen or apple blossoms.

White flannel skirts and white flannel coats—three-quarter lengths. White hats with dark costumes are seen on Fifth avenue and Broadway. White all over or white and red forming "candy stripes" white and gold in sportswear—not to mention the still popular white and black combination.

* * * *

Like to know how to make an evening dress look like six different gowns—and do the same thing with sports and street outfits? Not with harrowing old-fashioned ideas, but the Dah-ray way—as offered in this week's leaflet, which is yours for a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to the Dare department of The Washington Post.

And it is brimful of chic and smart ideas—and an adorable gown designed by Vionnet herself, and "oh, I could go on forever," says Sister Dionne, so I will just have to be a meanie and make you find out the rest for yourself!

* * * *

A town sports ensemble from Heim is the answer to a maiden's prayer—when it is anything like the one in blue and white crepe that I sketched for you today! The stripes are fine, and the crepe heavy, and oh, by the way, the material was handled! Then there was a blue and white kid belt—don't you lo-o-o-o-ove it?

* * * *

And one just had to indulge in some hat and scarf ensemble ideas after such a taste of summer glee! . . . so I sketched a beret and scarf made of navy blue ribbon—just to give Clever Fingers an idea or two. And a hat in the little sketch is of "remaille," a kind of stitch that is very attractive and an offering of a Paris modiste. The scarf with this would have to match in color only—and be crepe instead of "remaille." 'Cause the remaille is very scratchy!

Au revoir!

LAMB PIE FROM "LEFTOVERS."

SINCE this is Monday, we are reminded that Memorial Day is but a week away, which means a holiday and calls, on the whole, for picnics. Therefore, picnics we shall have here in the column before the week draws to a close. But not today, for we must concern ourselves with a make-over recipe for our leftover leg of lamb of yesterday—this for tomorrow's repast, of course. So here's tomorrow's menu, a good one, we think, inexpensive, but well balanced, as well as delicious.

TUESDAY'S DINNER.

Lamb Pie
Baked Spinach Pudding
Stuffed Beet and Egg Salad
Preserved Apricots
Old-Fashioned Sugar Cookies
Tea or Coffee

Lamb Pie.

Cut leftover lamb in medium-sized pieces and place in a saucepan with two or three carrots, a turnip, two or three small onions and three potatoes, all cut into dice. Add pepper and salt, cover with water and bring to a boil. Simmer for one hour, or until the meat is tender, then drain off the liquid. Blend one tablespoonful of butter with two teaspoonfuls of flour in a saucepan, add the drained liquid, season to taste and mix well. Add the meat and vegetables and cook for five minutes. Line a pie or pudding dish with pastry, fill with the meat and vegetables and cover top crust, making a slit or two in the center of the crust for the escape of steam. Bake in a hot oven from 20 to 25 minutes.

Baked Spinach Pudding.

1 cupful cooked spinach, chopped fine
3 eggs
1 teaspoonful butter, melted
1 cupful milk
½ teaspoonful salt
⅛ teaspoonful pepper
4 tablespoonfuls tomato catsup

Beat the eggs until light and creamy. Add the spinach slowly, then the milk and seasoning and, lastly, stir in the butter and catsup. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) for 30 minutes.

Stuffed Beet and Egg Salad.

Allow one medium-sized beet and one-half hard-cooked egg to each salad. Boil the beets until tender. Plunge into cold water and remove skins. Cut off root end and chill (canned beets may be used, if desired). Scoop out the interior of each and place hollow beet in French dressing. Chop interior of beet and hard-cooked eggs in cubes. Combine and blend with mayonnaise. Drain whole beet and fill with the egg mixture. Place on crisp lettuce leaves and garnish with mayonnaise, parsley and eighths of hard-cooked egg to form flower petals, using the riced yolk for the center.

Old-Fashioned Sugar Cookies.

¾ pound sugar
¼ pound butter
¼ pound lard
½ pint sour cream
2 eggs
1 scant teaspoonful soda
2 teaspoonfuls baking powder
4 to 5 cupfuls flour
1 teaspoonful vanilla

Cream butter and sugar, add beaten eggs and mix thoroughly. Sift soda and baking powder with the flour, using sufficient flour to make a thick batter and add alternately with sour cream. Add vanilla. Beat again and roll out or drop by spoonfuls on a well-greased pan. Bake in a moderate oven 10 to 20 minutes.

WHAT TO DO WITH LEFT-OVERS

Do you ever wonder how to use left-over meat, fish, vegetables, fruits, &c.?

If you do, and who doesn't, you will surely welcome the numerous suggestions and the variety of recipes for tasty dishes contained in our newest folder. All are essentially inexpensive, appetizing and simple, to meet the present-day need for economy.

THE WEIGHT GUIDE.

For individual assistance, write to Nancy Carey, sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope and give age, weight, height and habits of life.

Answers to Readers.

Dear Miss Carey—I am an interested reader of your column, and wonder if you would tell me the number of calories I need daily to keep my weight at about 113 pounds. I am 29 years old, 5 feet 4 inches tall. Do not get much exercise outside of light housekeeping. When I weigh between 110 and 115 pounds I look and feel best. Could you also tell me the number of calories in pieces of rhubarb, pineapple, blueberry, cherry, raisin, chocolate, coconut, banana cream and lemon meringue pies? Sincerely, PAULA.

According to the charts, my dear Paula, your weight should be about 125 pounds, but if you feel better and look better at 113, then that is the weight best for you. The average weight is not always the best weight, you know. So much depends on inherited tendencies, individual build, &c., that it becomes rather difficult to set a hard and fast rule for every one, regardless of these important factors.

To maintain your desired weight you will require about 2000 calories daily. This is only an approximate figure, you understand, to be increased or not as you find necessary. Watch you scales and take careful note of its indications. Should you find yourself gaining, eat less sweets and pastries until the arrow swings back again. If, on the other hand, you lose weight on this allowance, then it will be necessary to eat more of the things you like best.

Following are a few of the caloric values you requested. Since pies vary greatly in the making containing more or less sugar, shorter or richer crust, &c., it becomes rather difficult to measure their values exactly. But these, at least, will serve as a guide or a warning. Remember, too many sweet or rich desserts will quite upset your little craft.

Rhubarb pie, one-sixth pie..... 475
Lemon meringue, one-sixth pie.. 335

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

Dry Shampoos Gain in Popularity.

WITH the approach of warmer weather, dry shampoos are becoming more and more popular. These shampoos are especially beneficial during summer months, when the perspiration and oil glands are more active and when soap and water shampoos seem too frequently necessary. Or if a last minute engagement claims you and your hair looks drab or stringy, or oily; or if your wave has just been put in and you do not wish to disarrange it by a soap and water shampoo. Try these. But remember, they are only emergency measures to be taken occasionally and between soap and water shampoos.

1—Cornmeal, Almond Meals or Orris Root Dry Shampoo.

Get a fine grade of corn meal or almond meal, or some orris root at the drug store. Place in a talcum powder container or a box containing perforations in the top cover so that the meal or orris root will be sprinkled evenly over the hair. Shake lightly over the hair and allow it to remain for several minutes while you take your bath, give yourself a facial treatment, &c. Then brush every bit of the orris root, cornmeal or almond meal out of the hair. This is very important as a little meal or orris root left on the hair will leave a residue. These dry shampoos are especially good for blond hair.

Equal parts of cornmeal and orris root may be used to advantage. Add a little powdered camphor if the hair is excessively oily.

For darker hair, add a little ground cinnamon to the cornmeal and orris root mixture.

It is well to place a large towe over your shoulders and also cato every bit of the powder in a sheet o newspaper to avoid getting it on fu niture, &c.

2—White of Egg Dry Shampoo.

Dilute the white of an egg with few teaspoonfuls of clear water. M well. Apply very sparingly to th hair. Allow to dry. Then thorough brush out the residue left by the dry ing eggwhite. This emergency sham poo is especially beneficial as a sem dry cleanser and wave setter. Tho who wish to set their waves at th same time will find the eggwhite splendid wave setter. Coax and pin the hair into place as you wish it fall and set your wave with hairpi or combs while the hair is moi When thoroughly dry you can brus the eggwhite out of the hair witho disarranging the wave. The hair wi fall beautifully and appear clean an fluffy.

For Dry Hair.

For hair that is chronically dry, brisk rub with turkish towel, follow by a few minutes vigorous brushin and finish with an oil rub (just wee bit of pure olive oil or sweet a mond oil applied to scalp with tip of the fingers) is excellent. Follow ing the oil rub, brush again for a fe minutes to carry the oil eveni through the hair and give it more li and luster.

My bulletin on brushing and sham pooing the hair are yours for the ask ing. Remember the self-addresse stamped envelope.

What Today Means

"GEMINI."

IF May 23 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:15 a. m. to 9:30 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3:40 p. m., and from 7:20 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:45 p. m., and from 5 p. m. to 6:30 p. m.

A despondent mood will be quite general on May 23, and mole hills will assume mountainous proportions both within and outside of the domestic circle. The world will not be out of tune, but you will be decidedly out of step with the world, thus asking for trouble. Those past middle-age should guard against spring colds, as the planets are dangerously placed for them in fegard to their health.

Children born on this May 23 will be very easily influenced both one way and another, and will possess the dualistic tendencies of Gemini people. They will excel in mental pursuits, but will dislike physical activity. They will begin things with enthusiasm, and quit most things with boredom.

Born on May 23, you would like to ride through life in a "de luxe" fashion, but without paying the preliminary price of sacrifice and effo which might be necessary to secur such a passage. You love beautifu things, and luxurious material com forts. From choice, you would choos smart clothes to those which ar durable and practical. You prefer th dangers of racy and spectacula events and situations to the securit of something plain and wholesom There is, however, enough commo sense in your make-up to offset an extreme nonsense, although these op posing elements will always be at wa with each other.

Hospitality is one of your nature virtues, and the best you have i none too good for your guests of th moment. You can not be bothered however, with formal entertainin Children and animals single you ou for friendship, and whether stree urchins and curs or "mother's dar lings" and thorough-breds, they al find you an understanding and play ful pal. Your own children woul probably be pampered and spoiled.

By nature you are not diligent, bu you know when and how to trad on your charms. Your brain is active artful, and far-seeing, and you work should be mental, not bimanu

Vicki Baum Is Injured When Horse Runs Away

New York, May 22 (A.P.).—Vicki Baum, German author of the play "Grand Hotel," was thrown from a runaway horse on a Queens bridle path today and suffered several broken ribs, as well as a possible concussion of the brain.

Capt. Arthur O'Brien, of the 194th Field Artillery, who was riding with Miss Baum and his wife, suffered a dislocated shoulder as his horse fell on him while he was pursuing the runaway. In spite of his pain he carried the writer half a mile to the nearest house and both were taken to a hospital.

Culbertson on Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON

323.

WHEN SILENCE IS GOLDEN.

PHILOSOPHERS tells us there is a time to speak and a time to hold your tongue. The wise Bridge player is the one who realizes when silence is golden during the contracting. The most eloquent of all bids is the pass, and you do not need to be a great player to become an eloquent bidder.

The principles underlying this homily must now be firmly impressed upon two Bridge players who were sitting North and South in a rubber game the other day in a New York Bridge Club. Their failure somewhere in the four hectic rounds of bidding to adhere to this precept cost them a set of rather amazing proportions. The hand and bidding were:

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in the table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	Pass	1♠(1)
2◇(2)	Pass	2♡	Dbl.(3)
2NT(4)	Dbl.(5)	3♠(6)	Dbl.
4◇(7)	Dbl.	Pass(8)	Pass
Pass

1—With 4 honor-tricks and two biddable major suits, East can not pass.
2—South cannot be greatly blamed for this Overcall.
3—Sensing the misfit of the hands.
4—Seeking a way out.
5—The first hint of the impending storm.
6—If North must bid again, three hearts would be better here.
7—A very unwise Rebid.
8—North gives up.

West opened the Ace of clubs, and, when the absence of trumps in the Dummy was disclosed and East played the 8, continued with a low club. East ruffed, and led the King of hearts, and when South played the singleton Queen, shifted to the King of Spades, permitting West to discard the last heart. The Ace of hearts was then led. South ruffed, and West overruffed and led another club for East to trump. East now laid down the other high spade, and then continued with the third round of hearts. South trumping with the King, and West winning the trick with the Ace of trumps in order to lead another club and permit East to use his last trump.

When the smoke of battle had cleared away, North and South had won but 3 tricks, suffering a penalty of 2,600 points, due to their failure to stop bidding somewhere along the line. The hand was one in which no matter which side obtained the contract, trouble was sure to follow the attempt to play it. Fortunately for East and West, North and South would not stop talking, as otherwise the penalty, although not so severe, might have been assessed against them rather than their opponents.

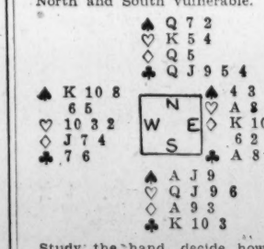
TODAY'S POINTER.

Bids based solely upon distributional values, particularly when the bidding has disclosed that length and strength in these suits are adversely held, usually are losing bids at the Bridge table.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

South—Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.



Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

SOME MILK SUBSTITUTES.

THERE are many substitutes that can be used with babies who can not drink milk because it causes them to have scald scalp, or because they can not digest it or show other evidence that it disagrees with them. Please understand that babies that can eat milk should do so and that milk substitutes should not be used if their use can be avoided.

Artificial milk—1 ounce of suet is chopped up and placed in a cheesecloth bag. This is put in a pint of cereal water, such as barley water, and boiled slowly for an hour. Since most mothers are young, as well as attractive, it may be best to add that boiling slowly means holding at a temperature barely above that of simmering—a few but not many bubbles are escaping. As the water boils, one-quarter ounce of gelatine and 1 teaspoonful of milk sugar are added. From time to time a little water is added to replace that which boils away until there is a part of water at the end, as there was at the beginning.

Twelve sweet almonds, preferably not blanched, have been well powdered and ground while the water was being boiled. Over these the mixture of hot water, suet and gelatine are poured, and the combination is thoroughly mixed. All larger particles are strained out, and a very little salt is added. The mixture is fed to the baby from a bottle as milk is.

Recently we gave another method for making an artificial milk.

The Chinese and Japanese have very few cows. When they are under the necessity of artificially feeding their babies they use a soy bean milk. One method of making soy bean milk is as follows:

Put one tablespoonful of soy bean flour and two of barley flour, or some other cereal flour, in one quart of water. Add a very little salt. Boil the mixture for 30 minutes, adding a little water to replace that lost in boiling. End with one quart of mixture.

It is customary in America to add one to two tablespoonfuls of sweetened condensed milk to the mixture. The amount of condensed milk added is not large enough to make the baby's eruption turn red and ooze unless the child is exceptionally sensitive.

More frequently these babies that handle milk poorly are fed on one of the albumin milks. One method of making an albumin milk is as follows:

Heat a quart of cow's milk to 100 degrees, and add the ferment, usually a junket tablet dissolved in cold water. Heat the mixture to 107 degrees and hold at that temperature for 15 minutes. This curdled milk is put in a double cheesecloth bag and hung up for the whey to drain off. To this curd add one quart of buttermilk and two tablespoons of flour suspended in water. Mix well. Boil 10 minutes. Stir well. End with one quart. Strain. In some instances a little sugar is added.

HALITOSIS.

E. N. writes:

1. Is it possible that large and decayed tonsils will cause halitosis? In this particular case the tonsils were lanced several years ago due to quinsy sore throat, and, naturally, that left several large cavities in the tonsils where little food particles lodge. Now, is it possible that the food particles in the tonsils can rot and become stagnant, thus causing halitosis?

2. What is the general cause of bad breath?

REPLY.

1. It is.

2. The most frequent cause lies in the lower digestive tract.

EXERCISE WON'T DO IT.

G. L. writes: Can you give me a set of exercises for curing bowlegs? I have this trouble and am anxious to cure myself and will go to any amount of trouble if necessary. I am 17 years old and weigh 135 pounds.

REPLY.

You will waste your time trying to straighten bowlegs by exercises.

Gardens

ARRANGING A BORDER.

MUCH interest is aroused if herbaceous plants are arranged on both sides of a path leading to a sundial, pergola or pool in a large garden. In a small garden the walk may lead to an arched seat or garden umbrella, a tea table or a few chairs.

One garden only 100 by 150 feet is surrounded by a rather rambling whitewashed stone wall. The perennials in this particularly restful spot are stretched along the irregular stones of the path leading from the steps of a terrace to the wall at the lower end of the garden. Here, perched on a niche, is a huge, green and shiny iron toad very busy spouting water into a diminutive pool 2 feet below. This small fountain adds much to the charm of the place.

When planting a border, never set too many early varieties in the foreground unless they happen to be those that retain their foliage until frost. To avoid this, it is best to use low-growing foliage plants, such as cerastium tomentosa (snow in summer) or sedum (stonecrop).

The charm of any group or border of perennials depends largely on the color scheme. Here the individuality of the owner is reflected. Of late years there has been a vogue for two-color effects, such as the blue and white or an entire border of two tones of blue with possibly a few yellows to lend accent. Such arrangements are usually disappointing for the reason that, when the choice is limited to varieties of two colors or several tints and tones of one color, it is impossible to have a succession of blooms the entire season. Landscape architects agree that a mixed border is preferable. Here you can have a mass of color that seemingly runs riot and yet have been so carefully placed that each clump of plants lives in complete harmony with its nearest neighbors.

LETTING UNCLE SAM DO IT.

THE following items were included in a $1,983.76 bill to the Government by a special senatorial committee on wild life for a fishing trip to Minnesota:

Three sinkers .....15 cents
Glasses .....75 cents
Soda to take on boat.....$2.00
One spoon hook.....$1.25
Catches .....15 cents

Ahoy for a Government fishing trip
And a string of successful catches,
With the itemized bill letting nothing slip—
Not even a box of matches!

Three cheer for a junket on woodland lakes
By a serious group of thinkers,
With Uncle Sam putting up what it takes—
Including three five-cent sinkers!

III.

Hooray for a trip in the summer time
With figures galore that showed a Wonderful record for each last dime—
Including the lemon soda!

IV.

Hip! Hip! for the life of a fisherman
Through forested lanes and passes,
With thirty-five cents for a frying pan
And seventy-five for glasses!

Oh, sweet is the lot of a patriot
On junkets quite huge and many,
With itemized statements precise, and not Forgetting each copper penny!

But when they give Uncle Sam any break
They all will have lost their senses!

WOMEN WETS GAIN 3,638 IN CAMPAIGN

Week's Drive in Capital Puts Membership at 7,238; Other Increases.

A "repeal week" drive in Washington last week by the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform resulted in the recruiting of 3,638 new members, bringing the total membership here to 7,238 women, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. William Beverly Mason, District division chairman.

"The great gain in membership in less than six days is an indication of the growing sentiment for a change in the prohibition law," Mrs. Mason said. "The new recruits pledged themselves to increased activity among voters in adjoining States. They are pledged for widespread educational work between now and election day."

Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, national chairman of the organization, on hearing of the results of the drive, sent Mrs. Mason a telegram, saying: "The success of repeal week has been beyond my expectations. Will you please thank all your workers for their untiring efforts. Victory is in sight, but we must not stop until it is a fact."

Successful drives were made in various States. The membership was doubled in Illinois, 65,000 new members being enrolled in four days. In "dry" Maine the returns have been so encouraging that it has been decided to continue the drive another week, it was reported. Montana, where the organization just started on May 10, had 5,000 membership cards signed in the first four days.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

A LAKE where real soap is being manufactured daily by natural process is one of the wonders found on the Island of Andros, in the Bahamas.

On the shores of the soap manufacturing lake the finished product is piled high where it dries out to about the consistency of semiliquid soap. The process, as outlined by C. M. Breder, jr., of the New York Aquarium, is this:

"The limestone bottom of the lake is alkaline, tiny organisms living in the water give off fatty acids, the wind stirs the two ingredients slowly, and the chemical combination results in heavy suds. Offshore winds blow the suds onto the shore where the sun dries it out, leaving the finished product."

Something new as a medium of exchange was resorted to by the citizens of Leroy, Saskatchewan, as a monetary standard recently . . . cheese. They do not actually carry their wealth about with them as cheese, when they go shopping, but certificates issued by a cooperative cheese factory are passed as cash.

Strange as it seems, this cheese on which the community cash is based does not exist. When the farmers reopened their old cheese factory, they issued the certificates for milk, payable when the cheese made from the milk is sold.

Any reader wanting further proof of anything depicted here should address the author, care of The Washington Post, and inclose a stamped and self-addressed envelope for reply.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

—With NELSON B. BELL—

IT HAD been rather my expectation to b-b-b-be t-t-t-taw, ta-haw, ta-haw, ta-hawk—speaking exactly like him by the t-t-t-ta-hay, ta-hy, ta-hyme, time I left his dressing room yesterday afternoon, but believe it or use your own judgment, — and you will believe it if you remember the later sequences of "Cimarron"— Roscoe Ates doesn't stammer any more than you do, except when he puts his mind on it. As a matter of fact, I doubt if he stammers as much even then as I did when I first fell within the aura of his daughter Dorothy's radiant beauty and youthful charm!

ROSCOE ATES.

It is a funny thing about this sure-fire comic who is laying them in the aisles at every performance during his current week of personal appearances—with daughter Dorothy assisting—as headline attraction of the vaudeville portion of the bill at the Earle. While there is no trace of it left in his speech, except, as I have said, as an aid to co dy, Roscoe Ates DID stammer until he was 18 years old. He cured himself while studying music at a conservatory in Warren Ohio. Although the violin was the instrument in which we was primarily interested, vocal training was an incidental feature of the curriculum. He discovered that one does not stammer when singing and, after due contemplation of the phenomenon, concluded that since it was all done with the same organs of the throat, there must be no real necessity of stammering when not singing. Operating on this assumption, he completely cured himself in a comparatively short time.

Asked if he wasn't afraid that so much stuttering on the stage and in pictures would cause a return of the old trouble, he emphatically took the negative view.

"No one, in the medical profession or out, will ever convince me," he said, "that stammering is either a muscular or nervous affliction. It is just a bad habit that any one can break himself of with a little concentrated effort. Given a few minutes a day with him, I'll guarantee to break anybody of stammering within a month."

It works both ways. Give anybody a few minutes a day with the staccato Mr. Ates in one of his screen roles and I'll guarantee that, he'll be stuttering like a motor boat in less than a month!

ON the stage fourteen years and in pictures approximately three, Mr. Ates is paying his first professional visit to Washington, although he and Mrs. Ates, who accompanies him and their daughter now, were visitors in the Capital the day President Harding's remains were due to arrive from San Francisco after that heart-breaking and distressingly delayed transcontinental journey from San Francisco, following the Chief Executive's sudden death in the Palace Hotel.

The crystallization of the Ates ambition to pursue a stage career did not occur until he was mustered out of the U. S. Army after 26 months service with the A. E. F. He began first as an orchestra leader. Then one day came the chance to substitute for an indisposed act on the stage. That was the pay-off.

"Why," quoth Mr. Ates to himself, "have I been dallying around with music? Nuts for that; this is the berries."

Thus having in the twinkling of an eye changed his diet from nuts to berries, he became at that moment, thenceforth and forever, an actor.

When she was 4 years old, little Dorothy was permitted to follow her natural bent by appearing with her daddy in his vaudeville act. That was after he had cut loose from a male partner or two and decided either to get somewhere alone, or with his own family, or find out once and for all that he really wasn't going anywhere. Dorothy has been with him on the stage ever since, but, so far, has developed no overweening desire to crash the cinema. Since she is still in her teens, there is still plenty of time for that—and when it comes, Papa will be able to make it easy for her. Easier is what I mean; for so talented and lovely an artiste as Mr. and Mrs. Ates' only child it would always be easy to get in front of those cameras.

It almost happened not to be so easy for her father. After a Fox scout had caught his act, with the stuttering left in—and I'll get to that presently—and had phoned him to come out to the lot for a test, Roscoe thought he was being taken for a ride by a clown he had known for years on the road and paid no attention to the call. Three days later when he discovered that a similarity in phone voices had fooled him, he made the studio in nothing flat and on the strength of that first test was given a three-year contract, which he terminated in as many months. The next engagement was with M-G-M, and for the past two years he has been a contract player for Radio. Pictures.

About that stammering, once when the act wasn't going so well, they began clowning and ad-libbing, and Roscoe, as a joke, stuttered some of his lines. It was such a hit that he has kept it up ever since.

The present vaudeville "tour" will have embraced a total of three weeks by the time it is concluded—Pittsburgh, Washington and Baltimore. Then Mr. and Mrs. Ates and Dorothy hurry back, probably by motor, to Hollywood, where the paterfamilias is scheduled to begin a new picture early in June.

In the meantime, Washington no doubt will see him importantly cast in what he describes to me as one of the funniest roles he has had in one of the funniest features ever made—"Hold 'Em, Jail," the last of the joint starring vehicles for Bert Wheeler and Bob Woolsey.

Just to give you an idea, he is quarter back on the penitentiary football team, who returns later as an alumnus, with a stuttering son, to cheer for alma mater!

Can you imagine Roscoe Ates calling signals? So can I!

THEY seem to me an ideal theatrical family, these Ateses—in love with each other, in love with their work and thoroughly substantial, regular, wholesome people. Dorothy, for example, has never spent a night away from her parents, and yet there are those who would tell us that the theater is a hazard for boys under 16 and girls under 18!

Mrs. Ates, blonde, genial and gracious, is a nonprofessional, who enters wholly into the spirit of her husband's and her daughter's work. Hers is a family of oil operators in Texas.

Mr. Ates is a native of Hattiesburg, Miss., and not in every respect quite as the screen pictures him. He is a bit younger in the flesh than the roles he plays on the screen permit him to appear and his coloring is a trifle different from what you might expect. His hair, instead of being as dark as the camera records it, is auburn and assertively curly unless plastered down with water, or a bill-poster's brush, or something. He is, I should say, about 5 feet 8 or 9 inches tall and not too heavy. Maybe around 145 or 150.

While the five of us—Bill Ewing, of the Warner Brothers' publicity department, did a neat job of pinch-hitting for Manager Harry Lohmeyer after Harry had taken us back to break up the Ates' supper hour—were chattering like so many magpies, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Lampkin breezed in from Loew's Fox to visit with their old friends. That is something else I imagine my presence unfortunately, but none the less effectually, kicked over the heart. The Messrs. Ates and Lampkin, it seems, have worked together a total of 9,000 weeks, or something like that, on the West Coast.

If you think a needle shower can sting, you ought to listen to some of their off-stage crossfire when they once get going along the general lines of "Listen, mug, I knew you when!" Just a couple of hatchet men!

But what I want to know is how two such klugs rate such charming womenfolk. They must be a couple of mesmerists along with the rest of it!

WEAVER HURLS NATS TO 7-1 VICTORY OVER RED SOX

This Morning with Shirley L. Povich

THE Red Sox were a welcome sight to the Nats yesterday after the terrific slaughter in New York. The Boston Club was just the tonic to restore the Nats to winning ways. The Red Sox are good for whatever ails the opposition, curing long losing streaks, anemia, of the batting averages, melancholia of the team morale and the kind of pitching that Ted Husing had a word for.

The Red Sox can take it. The Boston team hasn't any glass jaw. The other clubs have hung 26 defeats on Boston's collective chins in the first 31 games of the season and the Sox are still in there licking up the lickings like a bear cub in a honey vat.

The Nats gained a full game on the Yankees yesterday by their victory while Philadelphia was beating New York, but some of the joy is missing with the realization that the hot breath of the rampaging Athletics is now only three games in the rear.

A week ago the Nats were seven games in front of the Athletics and the lads, who were counting Mr. Mack's men out of the race are using the side entrances to public places.

But the Nats will be obliged if the Mackmen will beat the Yanks again today and tomorrow, even at the risk of making a three-club race out of it. Anybody who stops the Yanks will be doing the Washington club a favor at this stage of the race.

The Nats had a brains plus battery working again yesterday with Prof. Weaver and Barrister Berg on the field, but good catches by West, Reynolds and Myer were helping them to outthink the Boston hitters, or should I say batters.

Lightning struck twice in the same place yesterday against all the laws of nature when Monte Weaver made two singles in his first times at bat. It struck a third time with a louder crash when Weaver tripled to the farthest corner in his third time at bat.

In his fourth time at bat, with the crowd pulling for him to make another hit, Weaver waved three times to some friends in the center field bleachers, but inasmuch as he had his bat in his hand, Umpire Ormsby called him out on strikes.

Russell wheeled quickly and threw to first in an effort to catch Sammy West napping in the second inning, and then awoke to learn that West had at no time left the bag.

A moment later Catcher Connolly tried to catch Manush off first with a snap throw. It had plenty of snap and sailed into right field, while Manush reached third standing up.

Russell violated all of the rules of the pitchers' union when he attempted to drag a bunt in the third inning, a feat that few good hitters can get away with. Russell was out by 30 feet. Buddy Myer is the best drag bunter in the league.

Carl Reynolds took Amelia Earhart's great circle route in the third inning to fasten himself on the end of Olsen's fly to deep right field.

Joe Cronin had a poor day at bat, striking out twice in succession on third strikes that ended up in the vicinity of the Washington dugout.

Joe Judge was hitting 'em on the nose all day, but he couldn't knock Earl Webb down with his line drives, which is quite a trick for any batter.

Weaver threw a slow ball to Jolley in the sixth, but there was nothing slow about it as it sped into right field. Reynolds fielded the ball in deep right as if it were a hot infield smash.

Michaels' turn on the mound was short, but not sweet. He pitched only to Sammy West, and when West doubled Manager Collins decided that as a relief pitcher Michaels was a great relief to the Nats.

Allen and Nee Finalists In Prep School Golf

The Prep School League invitational golf tournament, which developed into an all-Georgetown Prep School affair when the semifinals were reached, will be concluded today when Allen and Nee meet in the final test over the 36-hole route. Allen earned the right to compete for the title by disposing of Finn, 3 and 2, while Nee was winning over Zubrot, 4 and 3. Nee played par golf yesterday to defeat Zubrot. He negotiated the first eighteen holes in 85.

Biggest Test For Barry Tonight

Capital Boy Battles Maxie Rosenbloom at Laurel Arena.

Light-Heavy King Is Favorite; Five Other Matches Listed.

By JACK ESPEY.

FLANKED by Kid Opportunity and Dame Fortune, young Reds Barry marches into Twin City Arena tonight, there to test his boxing skill against a champion, Maxie Rosenbloom, the king of the light-heavyweights.

In the forty-third bout of his colorful career, the 18-year-old Southeast Washington pride meets the best man he yet has encountered, with a keen understanding of the chance for cash and glory confronting him.

Rosenbloom, generally recognized as titleholder, although the N. B. A. rates George Nichols No. 1, will be a distinct favorite to defeat the Capital youth at odds probably as high as 5 to 1.

Five Other Bouts on Program.

The bout is listed for ten rounds, the feature of Twin City's 1932 inaugural card comprising six contests. The opening preliminary will start at 8:30 o'clock.

Barry is one of the comparative few who talks confidently of his chances of winning, but he makes no idle boast as he has looked forward to this occasion for three years, or since he first donned a padded glove. Questioned last night on his views, Reds enthused:

"This is the chance I have been dreaming of ever since I was old enough to know what boxin' Many a time I have dreamed of fighting a world's champion and now it would feel. Well, I get my chance tomorrow night, and boy, I am going to fight like I never have before."

Rosenbloom arrived in Washington last night, reporting himself in the best of condition. He will weigh about 180 pounds ringside, while Barry will scale approximately 190. The local boy has been training diligently in the Mohawk Club gym for the past three weeks, having concluded the more rigorous part of his routine last Friday, when he uncorked some powerful left-hand punches during a sparring session with Billy Edwards.

Both Clever Boxers.

On past performances the fans may look for a lively bout featured more by the speed of the participants than by their power. Both Rosenbloom and Barry are known as boxers equipped with plenty of science, but little dynamite in their fists. A knockout is improbable.

Outstanding among the preliminary clashes is a six-round bout between Young Van, undefeated Washington middleweight, and Sammy Britt, of Philadelphia. Van will be shooting for his eighth successive victory and his seventh k.o. His opponent is rugged and experienced.

The semifinal bout of eight rounds brings together Freddy Haverlak, stablemate of Rosenbloom, and Don Whitlock, a lightweight from Tallahassee, Fla. Little is known here of Haverlak, but Whitlock has been showing excellent form in gymnasium workouts.

Billy Essinger, crowd-pleasing lightweight, opens the show with Pete Zingo of Baltimore. The main preliminary lists Ray Bowen, Washington welterweight, and Pete DeAngeles, of Baltimore. Another warm-up affair presents Billy Hoe, Mohawk Club junior welter, and K. O. Anderson, of the Quantico Marines.

The arena is located on the Washington-Baltimore boulevard, 1 mile from Laurel, on the Baltimore side. Buses running to and from the arena will be available to fans at the Mohawk Club, 515 Eighth street southeast, and at Fifteenth and H streets northeast, beginning at 7 p. m.

Tickets will be on sale until 6 p. m. at Vic's Sport Shop, 716 Ninth street northwest, and thereafter at the arena.

BOXING BITS' SELECTIONS—Rosenbloom to defeat Barry; Haverlak to outpoint Whitlock; DeAngeles to shade Bowen; Van to check Britt; Anderson to conquer Hoe, and Essinger to beat Zingo. (Batting .747.)

Loretta Turnbull Wins First Heat in Italy

Gardone, Riviera, Italy, May 22 (A.P.).—Rain and engine trouble spoiled the opening of the third annual international motorboat regatta on Lake Garda today for Loretta Turnbull, Monrovia, Calif., girl pilot.

Miss Turnbull, who enjoyed spectacular success in this competition last year, won the first heat of the Fasano Cup race for outboards by 50 yards, but finished sixth in the second heat when her boat developed motor trouble.

Rupert Turnbull, one of Loretta's brothers, dropped out of the first heat on account of motor trouble. Another, Raymond, placed just ahead of his sister in the second heat.

Miss Turnbull covered the 12 kilometers of the first heat in 12 minutes 24 seconds.

Rain forced cancellation of the latter half of the opening day's program.

Germany Eliminates Austria's Cup Team

Vienna, May 22 (A.P.).—Germany's Davis Cup Tennis Team eliminated Austria today, three matches to two.

Leading two matches to one after the first two days of the test, Germany split even in the final two singles encounters. Gottfried von Cramm decided the series in Germany's favor when he defeated Franz Matejka, 6—2, 2—6, 6—3, 5—7, 8—6. Daniel Prenn was beaten by Herman Artens, of Austria, 6—4, 6—2, 6—3.

WALKER AND PAULINO IN FEATURE

Heavies Clash Thursday in Outstanding Bout of Week.

NEW YORK, May 22 (A.P.).—Heavyweights in Madison Square Garden and featherweights in Detroit top the national boxing schedule this week.

In the Garden on Thursday night, Mickey Walker tackles Paulino Uzcudun, Spain's durable heavyweight, in a ten-round bout. Walker will be favored to win, but the Rumson, N. J., warrior may find Paulino a tough nut to crack. The Basque has seen his best days as far as the ring goes, but he still is a hard man to beat, apparently impervious to punishment.

At Detroit the same night, Tommy Paul, of Buffalo, and Johnny Pena, of New York, will clash in the fifteen-round final of the National Boxing Association's featherweight championship tournament. The winner will receive N. B. A. recognition as successor to the 126-pound throne Christopher (Bat) Battalino vacated a couple of months ago.

Bouts on the national schedule include:

MONDAY—At Laurel, Md., Reds Barry, Washington, vs. Maxie Rosenbloom, New York, heavyweights, 10 (nontitle); at San Francisco, Gaston LeCadre, France, vs. Charley Cobb, San Diego, welterweights, and Tom Grogan, Omaha, vs. Goldie Hess, Ocean Park, Calif., lightweights, each 10; at Boston, Joe Knight, Cairo, Ga., vs. Charlie Belanger, Winnipeg, light-heavyweights, 10.

TUESDAY—At Los Angeles, Joey Goodman, Cleveland vs. Ceferino Garcia, Philippines, welterweights, 10; at Portland, Ore., Fred Steele, Tacoma, vs. Frank Stetson, San Francisco, welterweights, 6.

Central and Eastern Nines to Clash Today

The beginning of the play-off series to determine the public high school baseball championship is scheduled this afternoon when Central and Eastern clash on Eastern's field at 3:30 o'clock. The winner will meet Western, the third team involved in the first place deadlock created recently when Eastern, 1931 champion, was upset by Western, after having won three straight games.

Dick Lanahan or Cecil Hale will toe the slab for Coach Guyon's club, which has enjoyed fine pitching all season.

11 From U. S. In British Amateur

Play Starts Today as English Stars Are Favorites.

Outsider Won Event Last Year; Finals on Saturday.

MUIRFIELD, Scotland, May 22 (A.P.).—Even in an off year of international golf, 11 Americans will be among the 235 starters at the Honorable Company of Edinburgh Golfers' Old Homestead near the Gullane Hills for the 1932 British amateur championship, opening tomorrow.

Eighteen-hole matches mornings and afternoons will continue the thinning process until finalists emerge for the 36-hole final Saturday.

The American contingent, headed by Dave Martin, California, champion, is a handful of ambitious youths. Joshua Crane, Brookline, Mass.; Leonard Martin, of Rye, N. Y.; Ross Thompson, Uniontown, Pa., and Clive Alvord, Greenwich, Conn., are the others from American clubs. Dave Martin is in the hardest quarter of the draw along with three British Walker Cup players.

Americans Are Long Shots.

The men from the U. S. A. are supported here by a half-dozen Americans who play more golf on this side of the pond than at home. They are Paul Azbill, Sunningdale; Douglas Grant, St. Georges; Stuart Scheftel, Addington, former British boy champion; Charles and Robert Sweeny, Prince's Club, both on the Oxford University Team, and their uncle, Frank Sweeny, a London business man, formerly of Los Angeles.

Americans do not figure in the championship field so strongly as in the years when the Walker Cup matches are held here. Still, the British title chase is the biggest lottery of golf. A veritable unknown, Eric Martin Smith, won it last year.

Even Bobby Jones himself took three shots to bag the trophy once, and great players like Tolley pass out in early rounds under nervous pressure of the many matches. Only Sweetser in 1926 and Jones in 1930 have won it among American homebreds.

Late Chisox Rallies Win 2 From Tigers

Chicago, May 22 (A.P.).—Two ninth-inning rallies today gave the Chicago White Sox a double victory over the Detroit Tigers in the first twin bill of the season here. The scores were 3 to 2 and 8 to 7, and enabled the Hose to even the four-game series.

All the Chicago runs in the opener off Wyatt were the result of homers. Red Kress hit one in the sixth with one on, to tie the score, and in the ninth Johnny Hodapp, playing outfield for the Sox, blasted the winning run across the plate with a shot into the left field stands.

The Tigers pounded Ted Lyons in the nightcap for a large early lead, but the Hose, trailing, 7 to 1, picked up a couple off Bridges in the eighth with the aid of one hit. Art Herring hurled the last frame and the Sox scored five times, to win the game after two were out. Blue's triple with the bases full was the decisive blow.

Two rookie hurlers, Paul Gregory and 18-year-old Clarence Fieber, were the victorious White Sox pitchers.

Vet Sports Writer, Bozeman Bulger, Dies

New York, May 22 (U.P.).—Bozeman Bulger, 54, well-known sports writer, died of a heart attack today at his home, Lynbrook, Long Island.

Flags at Ebbets Field and Yankee Stadium were at halfmast during today's games as a tribute to Bulger, who has covered the New York Giants for many years during publication of the old New York Evening World.

Macks Down Yanks, 4-2, On Homers

Clouts by Cochrane, Simmons, Foxx Produce Runs.

Grove Defeats Johnson; Gives 3 Hits for Eight Innings.

NEW YORK, May 22 (A.P.).—Some of Lefty Grove's best pitching and three home runs, including Jimmie Foxx's fourteenth circuit drive of the season, gave the Philadelphia Athletics a 4-to-2 victory over the Yankees before a crowd of 40,000 today. It was the Athletics' seventh consecutive triumph.

Grove outpitched Henry Johnson by a very small margin in a close duel. He allowed only six hits and had a shutout up to the ninth inning. Johnson gave five hits and fanned seven in the eight innings he pitched before yielding to a pinch hitter, and Walter Brown.

All the A's runs came through homers. In the fourth inning Al Simmons walloped one out of the lot with Cochrane on base. In the sixth, Mickey Cochrane hit for the circuit, and immediately afterward Foxx clouted No. 14, putting him four ahead of Babe Ruth in the race for major league honors.

The Yankees made only three hits off Grove in the first eight innings and three more in the ninth.

Babe Ruth led that inning off with a single and crossed the plate on Lou Gehrig's triple. Chapman singled to bring Lou home, but the Athletic southpaw retired the next three men in order.

BRAVES WIN, LOSE TO PHILS

Record Boston Crowd of 51,331 Sees Twin Bill.

BOSTON, May 22 (A.P.).—The largest crowd that ever assembled for a major league game in Boston today saw the Boston Braves split a double-header with Philadelphia. The official count was 51,331.

With Ed Brandt hurling, the Braves took the opener, 4 to 2, and dropped the second when Philadelphia bunched three singles in the tenth inning for a 5 to 3 victory.

Brandt gave the Phillies but five scattered hits as he hurled the Braves into their seventh straight win.

In the second game, Harry "Socks" Seibold hurled masterly ball for the Braves until the eighth, when the Phillies overcame a three-run lead to tie the score. Fred Frankhouse relieved Seibold and in the tenth Klein and Hurst singled and George Davis scored both with a long drive.

HUNT DEFEATS YEOMANS IN CITY TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Shore-Latona Default in Doubles

Youths, an Hour Late for Match, Ruled Out by Referee.

Mitchell With Those to Advance in Men's Singles.

THE doubles end of the City of Washington tennis tournament was dealt a heavy blow yesterday when the strong team of Frank Shore and Anthony Latona were defaulted for appearing an hour late for their first-round match with Hoffecker and Dreshler.

The veteran referee of the tournament, Louis I. Doyle, former District champion, ruled on the situation which arose when Hoffecker and Dreschler were kept waiting long after the scheduled time for their match with the second seeded team in the tournament. In making his decision, Doyle adhered to the tournament rules which automatically put out a team that is tardy by fifteen minutes.

It was one of the first instances of its kind in the last five years of big league local tennis.

Hunt Wins in Two Sets.

Play in men's singles advanced into the third round with the sensational young dark horse of the tournament, Gilbert Hunt, Eastern High School boy, leading the way. Hunt defeated Clyde Yeomans, 6—1, 6—2, and Muscoe Garnett, 6—3, 6—1, in yesterday's matches.

Dooly Mitchell, first seeded player, put out Harry Hill by 6—2, 6—4 scores. Bob Considine, who won the tournament in 1930, had trouble with an unknown, Addison Grant, and barely won, 6—4, 7—5.

The only thing approximating an upset yesterday was the defeat of Joe Oldhausen, former ranking Philadelphia star, at the hands of Gene Hermann, public parks ace. Hermann won decisively, 6—2, 6—3.

Today at 5 o'clock the tournament will produce some of its best matches. Mitchell will meet the veteran Dean Judd, while Shore will play Considine. An hour earlier Anthony Latona meets the ponderous public parks standby, Hugh Trigg, who put out Bill Buchanan yesterday, 6—3, 6—3.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code)

—By Ken Kling

The roll went up $5.96 Saturday when Queensway won the big race in Canada, breaking the track record and paying $8. The code horse, a 7 to 1 shot, ran third after a bad start. Bank roll is now $46.47. Sixty-two out of the last 77 horses finished in the money.

Today Joe's secret handicap system horses run at different tracks. Tug o' War, Gold Step, Pan, Red Whisk, Sand Fiddler, Solace.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL, WASHINGTON PARK.

Horses, horses, horses. In fact, the management of this beautiful track comes through with figures to show that 2,000 are hanging their bridles within walking distance with Lincoln Fields accommodating hundreds of others. I sincerely hope, Al, that they will hold a stall open for Burgoo King, due here later in the month. Chicago seems steamed up for the meeting. Expect 20,000 out today and the racing stays here for 30 days.

Left Gallopin' Joe at Churchill Downs. His Depression ran third at a good price but I believe it was only a hunch. BILL.

FIRST RACE—GRAND PRINCE has been shipped here fresh from a pair of sprint victories on the Downs and I can't see him being defeated in this group. True the opposition is somewhat stronger. Likes to break from the outside. DICK MORRIS has developed a left-at-the-post complex, but I expect him to be second. TOMBEREAU for third.

SECOND RACE—RED WISH, gelded son of Whiskalong, has shown fine form, winning twice and finishing second in three starts. Looks like another victory here. MISS BRILLIANT'S last was a beaut. See her second. BALLYGRAN won a race in Maryland and is dangerous.

THIRD RACE—FLAG TIME, High Time gelding, has a habit of being close in all races and won his last easily. Looks like a spot to collect brackets. CALGARY KAY was beaten a nose at Aurora by Martie Flynn and will be ready to take it all if the top fellow makes any mistakes. ELIZABETH BOLLA showed me a lot of speed in leading for some five furlongs in a race over the route at Pimlico. Off that I am putting her third.

FOURTH RACE—BATTLING ON showed a return to good form at Aurora and did everything asked the last time. See no reason why this one can't make it two in a row today. FREIGHT CLERK has been consistent and appears second best. SOUTHLAND BOY for the third honors.

FIFTH RACE—The Greentree entry of SURFBOARD and JUSTINIAN are given the call in this race—one of the toughest of the season. Both have been freshened and either has the necessary speed to take the purse. SILVERDALE has a great sprint record to recommend him for second. POLYDOROUS for third.

SIXTH RACE—BATHER was up with a fast pace at Churchill Downs before he drifted back to finish out of the money. I expect this one to regain some of that good winter form. BRASS MONKEY must be beaten by the top one. COME ON to take the short end.

SEVENTH RACE—JODHPUR was in the best form of recent months at Pimlico and was barely beaten by Tarnish. I expect the son of Mad Hatter to show this field a thing or two today. COMSTOCKERY won at Churchill Downs and I like him second ahead of LUCCKY CARTER.

G. U. Prep Tennis Stadium Dedicated

Capital Stars Appear in Exhibitions; Ten Courts Available.

With several hundred spectators looking on, including the Rev. Father Timothy Dineen, S. J., president of Georgetown University; the Rev. Father Robert S. Lloyd, S. J., rector of Georgetown Prep, and James E. Gaffney, former owner of the Boston Braves, Georgetown Prep's new tennis stadium was dedicated yesterday with a series of exhibition matches by well-known local players.

In one-set singles matches, Dooly Mitchell defeated Tom Mangan, 10—8, and Bob Considine defeated Bud Markey, 6—4. Markey and Mitchell beat Mangan and Considine, 8—6.

The new tennis plant consists of ten courts, a tennis house and is ornamented by two pergolas, flagpole and other ornamentation. The courts are the gift of Mr. Gaffney, whose grandson, Robert Renehan, raised the flag at the start of ceremonies.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

FAVORITES continued to advance in the unlimited division of The Post's Capital City League yesterday. Ciro's Italian Village seized the lead in Section A by virtue of an 11-8 victory over City Cab. Horning Jewelers broke into the win column with a 9-7 victory over the Union Printers, while Congress Heights slaughtered Highway Department, 24-6, in the other games in this section.

In Section B, Columbia Heights and Rock Creek Servicenter forged ahead of Federal Storage, the former walloping Diamond Cab, 18-6, while Rock Creek was awarded a forfeit over St. Joseph's when several of the Saints' players were tardy in appearing for the game, which has been protested. Franc Jewelers scored their first league victory at the expense of Federal Employe Unionists. The score was 7-4.

Baker's Relief Work Outstanding.

Pitchers played prominent roles in yesterday's games. "Doc" Baker's splendid work after relieving Scagnelli in the fourth inning saved the day for Ciro's. Baker granted only one hit until the ninth, when with the victory assured, he eased up and was nicked for a pair of runs. City Cab exhibited surprising strength both at bat and afield and almost succeeded in overturning the Villagers' wagon. Licarione drove in six of the winners' runs, while Barry and Caspar contributed three hits each to the attack. Manders' triple in the fourth, driving in three runners, featured the Cabmen's offensive.

Sugrue and Lassise clouted homers as Congress Heights bowled over Highway. Ingram, Wahler and Sweeney divided the mound work and succeeded in holding the losers to nine safeties. Ingram also made his presence felt at bat with three singles. Sugrue followed up his circuit clout with a brace of doubles, driving out six hits in as many times at bat.

Jewelers Refuse to Give Up.

A seven-run rally in the sixth inning temporarily placed the Union Printers ahead of Horning, but the Jewelers responded with a three-run volley in their half of the inning that knotted the count. Two additional runs in the eighth frame gave Horning its first league victory. Duvall and Olsen led the winning assault, while Edmonston and Carter did the twirling. Smith and Homan sparkled on the offense for Ed Lowery's boys.

If the games went only five or six innings Diamond Cab probably would be leading the race. For five innings yesterday it battled Columbia Heights blow for blow, but cracked when round six hove into view. The winners tallied an even dozen runs in the last three innings of the game.

MILLER, FURNITURE and Koontz Service drew out in front of the other contenders for the senior laurels in The Post's Capital City League by chalking up their second consecutive victories yesterday. Miller turned back the Takoma Tigers, 12-3, and Koontz swamped the Clifton Barbers, 16-2. Dor-A edged into the win column with a 7-8 triumph over Swann Service.

Even "Little Knocky" Thomas joined in the fun as hits rattled off the bats of the Miller aggregation in the taming of the Tigers. "Mouse" Miller led the assault with three, while Thomas and Waverly Wheeler socked two each. "Milly" Reigleman tapped a home run during the fray. George Wood held the Tigers to five hits by bringing up his second league victory. Charley Bradley made a double play unassisted, and turned it into a triple killing with a quick peg to Reigleman in the fifth inning after Takoma runners had crowded the bases.

Davis fanned eight and set his opponents down with two hits to give Koontz the decision over the Barbers.

BLUE COALS BEATEN BY CELTICS

Bow, 8-3; St. Mary's Also Downs Campbell's Club, 11-0.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., May 22.—St. Mary's Celtics took both ends of a double-header with the Griffith Blue Coals, of Washington, and the Campbell's Shoe Store, of Harrisonburg, Va., at Baggett's Park here this afternoon to run their string of consecutive triumphs to four. The Green and Gold handed the Coalmen an 8-to-3 drubbing in the opener and polished off the Campbell's nine by 11 to 0 in the seven-inning nightcap.

Herbie Young and Kermit Smith, former minor league stars, turned in two brilliant exhibitions on the mound for the Celtics with the former shutting out Campbell's without a hit or a run in the seven-inning stretch and Smith limiting Griffith's to four scattered singles. Young fanned eleven and Smith ten.

THE National Pale Drys were in a favorable spot to go ahead of Wonder Bread Team in the midget division of The Post's Capital City League yesterday as the Breadmen idled, but Arlington Post refused to be a party to the plot and held the Beverage Boys to a 5-5 tie to thwart their plans. Goodacre's Coffee Pot made its debut in the loop handing Thompson's Furniture a 15-1 lacing.

All of the Pale Dry runs were manufactured in the fifth inning when McReady, Stein and Bailey came through with some stinging blows. The rally gave "Rip" Mills' charges a four-run lead, but Arlington added two runs to its lone tally in the sixth frame and followed up with two more in the seventh to knot the count. Darr's trio of bingles and Preston's steady hurling featured the play of the Legionnaires.

Goodacre's assumed a four-run lead in the first inning of its game with Thompson's and then on it was only a question of how great the score would be. Bieber and Cuozzo held the losers safe throughout the fray. Boyd connected for a homer to aid the winning cause, while Lomax, Miller and Hollidge also c through with long hits.

FOUR MEN ARRESTED IN PROBE OF PLOT TO KIDNAP DRUG CLERK

Fifth Suspect Being Sought as Alleged Leader of Conspiracy.

HOTEL STORE HOLDUP IS HELD PART OF PLAN

Police, Given Tip on Scheme, Are Not Convinced of Authenticity.

Receiving "grapevine" information that a plot was being hatched to hold up and rob the Liggett's branch drug store in the Ambassador Hotel Building at Fourteenth and K streets northwest, and then kidnap and hold for ransom a clerk there, a squad of detectives descended on a house at 1426 K street late yesterday and arrested four men on investigation charges.

While police did not place much credence in the alleged plot, the men were being held until today at least, for questioning.

One of them, who detectives said appeared to have been drinking, is said to have admitted the men had discussed the plan. A fifth man, said to be the leader and provider of guns and other equipment, was being sought last night.

Were to Enter by Pool.

Those taken into custody are Albert V. Hutchinson, 30, Lebanon, Mo.; Thomas Owens, 28, 1426 K street northwest; Clayton Thompson, 46, 928 Fourteenth street northwest, and Maurice Severance, 20, 928 Fourteenth street northwest. Police said the latter three were understood to be from out of town, also.

Detectives said the man who told them of the purported conspiracy stated that the plotters had intended to make their way into the drug store by way of the Ambassador Hotel swimming pool just after closing time at the store.

Planned to Take Cash.

The rumored plan was to enter the swimming pool by way of a window opening on an alley. A window from the natatorium is said to lead into the drug store. This would have been broken, it was said, and entrance gained to the pharmacy.

The night's receipt's were to have been stolen at gunpoint, the clerk slugged and whisked away through the swimming pool and into an automobile waiting in the alley.

Police generally were inclined to view the "plot" as a Sunday afternoon gabfest, but said that they would question the men arrested to ascertain any knowledge they may have had of it.

Included in the detective party that raided the K street address were Detective Sergts. Larry O'Dea, A. D. Mansfield, Joe Sincavitz, Jarry Flaherty and Joe Waldron.

Injuries received when the automobile in which she was riding crashed head on into another car on a curve on the Baltimore boulevard near Beltsville early yesterday proved fatal to Mrs. Bridget O'Connor, 77 years old. Five other persons received injuries in the crash which involved four automobiles.

DISCIPLES OF CHRIST TO COMBAT LIQUOR

Church Convention Deplores Progress Wet Propaganda Is Making in U. S.

A recommendation for the inauguration of a mobilization and educational campaign in respect to the evils of alcohol and the liquor traffic was unanimously adopted at the convention of the Disciples of Christ of the States of Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia just concluded.

A standing committee for the convention area on citizenship and temperance was appointed, with instruction to cooperate with the National Board of Temperance and Social Welfare of the Disciples of Christ. The committee named by the president of the convention consists of Dr. W. H. Pinkerton, of Washington; Dr. M. E. Sadler, president-elect of Lynchburg College; Dr. F. W. Burnham, of Richmond; J. A. Tate, State evangelist of Virginia; Dr. Peter Ainslie, of Baltimore; Mrs. H. H. Harmon, of Washington; Mrs. Rosa Van Meter, of Martinsburg, W. Va.; Mrs. Mary Longfellow, of Baltimore, and S. T. Snead (chairman), of Washington.

Steps had already been taken looking toward the organization of more aggressive temperance work in Washington through such a committee at the National City Christian Church, of which committee Mr. Snead is chairman. The aim is to build around this an aggressive educational force with the cooperation of all Protestant churches in the city.

The convention deplored the reports and editorials in certain newspapers which made it appear that prohibition is the cause of economic depression and the breeder of crime and lawlessness.

K. of C. to Meet Wednesday.

The annual State convention and election of officers of the Knights of Columbus of the District will be held Wednesday night at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 920 Tenth street northwest.

AFFECTION OF RUTH CITED BY MINISTER

Declares God Not Jealous of Devotion Shown Worthy Fellow Creatures.

"We may learn from Ruth that there is no law of God against human affections," declared Dr. J. Harvey Dunham, preaching last night at the Western Presbyterian Church.

"Nor is God jealous of the devotion shown to worthy fellow creatures. We may learn further from Ruth that the basis of friendship is character and the basis of character is religion. The world has just had a striking illustration of the fact that there is no honor among thieves. There is no happiness among friends or in the home that is not based upon the foundation of Christian character," Dr. Dunham continued.

The speaker's theme was "The Rose of Moab." His text was taken from the book of Ruth, 1:16,17.

Story of Ruth Attractive.

"Ruth's name in Hebrew means 'friendship' and in English 'pity.' She lived up to her name in both languages. She is one of the most attractive girls in the Bible. Her story is one of the best short stories in literature. Her decision to follow her mother-in-law, and the classic words in which she expressed that decision, have made her immortal," Dr. Dunham explained.

"Her passionate burst of dignity and affection has never been surpassed. It puts into fitting words for all generations the deepest thoughts of loving hearts. It blends the two strongest emotions of our nature, love and religion," Dr. Dunham said.

"Life has many pathways and many partings. The Ruths go one way, the Orphas go another way. The Orphas go back to heathen gods and a life of worldliness. The Ruths go forward to marriage bells, to a royal line, to a hundredfold more in this present time and in the world to come eternal life.

Choice Appeals to Faith.

The usual course of life is quiet and uneventful. Life is made up of the trivial round and common task. But into this gentle routine come hours charged with meanings, moments big with destiny. Such an hour came to Ruth when she stood at the parting of the ways. And such an hour comes to us when to the pleadings of God, the soul must answer, 'I will,' or make the great refusal.

"Ruth's choice is an appeal to us to exalt the faith of our fathers, to hold fast to the church, the Bible and our fathers' God.

"Has the hour of decision arrived? Have you come to the parting of the ways? Let your choice be the choice that Ruth made. And God will look after your heritage and your happiness and make your name fragrant as 'The Rose of Moab,'" Dr. Dunham concluded.

Driver and Passenger Arrested After Wreck

Two cars were badly damaged, a driver of one was charged with reckless driving and having no District operator's permit and his passenger arrested on drunkenness charges, as the result of an accident on Canal road northwest near New Cut road yesterday afternoon.

Douglas C. Jones, 34, of 1419 N street northwest, was arrested on the traffic charges, while his passenger, William Armstrong, 53, 4100 K street northwest, was charged with being drunk. Police said they learned Jones' car swerved into that of Mitchell Harwitz, 41, of 1900 F street, shunting it into a ditch. Three other persons were in the latter car. No one was injured.

LINDBERGH MURDER HELD SYMPTOM OF CANCER IN SOCIETY

Dr. Schnabel Says That Crime Shows World's Spiritual Failure.

INDIFFERENCE TO SIN IS BLAMED IN SERMON

Revival of Personal Religion Called Need for Changing Social Order.

The Lindbergh crime was only a symptom, the carbuncle on society's neck that tells of a poisoned blood stream that needs cleansing and purifying," declared Dr. George E. Schnabel preaching yesterday at the Albright Memorial Evangelical Lutheran Church. That crime and all others are the cancerous growth that demands a major operation to eradicate it," he continued.

Speaking on "You and the Lindbergh Baby," Dr. Schnabel said in part:

"The only excuse for using the above subject is to evaluate life in terms of the tragic experience that has hung like a dark cloud over our American life since that little crib was left empty and two hearts were left broken upon the altar of America's pagan travesty of spiritual failure.

"When the first message broke upon a crime-ridden and very sick world, folks were stirred. Some shed sympathetic tears and many there were who wanted to join a lynching party. The nation's editors with one voice wrote, 'This Ought Never to Happen Again.' The emotional wave continued while a waiting world hung in suspense waiting for the return of Heaven's gift to two hearts that loved and longed for quiet and peace. Then came the news, terrible heart-breaking, poignant, and again we all wept and cried to 'High Heaven' that crime's end had come, that this would be the beginning of a war on lawlessness, gangsters and the evil forces that vitiate and destroy the hopeful lives of childhood and youth.

Doctors of World Baffled.

"I am not a pessimist, for I believe that right must win the day, but we would be cheap and silly optimists if we were not aware that the world is sick, very sick, and that the doctors are absolutely baffled. They continue to prescribe their economic, political and social nostrums. They aren't ready to throw up their hands and turn the patient over to God. That is what must be done if there is to be any hope for this sick old world. We have not seen the end to such tragedies. This emotional outburst is no cure for the patient.

"There will be more kidnapings—other Kreugers will arise to blight the economic life of the world and still more George Eastmans will in the despair of their philanthropic endeavors say 'there is no use of going on.' The outrageous apectacle of a convicted gangster attempting to trade upon the tragic sorrow of two broken hearts will be repeated. In a few more months another group of international banksters will float worthless bonds for a trusting people to buy. At each new election an indifferent citizenry will send to Congress more cheap politicians who will attempt to buy votes with beer when bread is what the hungry are crying for.

Changing of Social Order.

"With all of the tenderness it is possible to muster I appeal to you to begin changing the social order by changing life. Too long have we depended upon laws to make men good. An ideal world is impossible without ideal people. The soul of reform is the reform of the soul.' Laws against kidnaping did not prevent the stealing of this baby nor will the harshest laws prevent it in the future. The only possible hope is to change the lives of potential kidnapers, potential gangsters, potential Kreugers.

"Hugh Rewood, associate editor of the London News Chronicle tells us that 'Life changing on a colossal scale is the only hope left for the world.' There must be a rebirth of vital religion if we are to find the way out. Stanley Baldwin says 'Many people, I fear, do not realize the very critical period through which the world is passing. I confess I am not sure, if a Wesley or a St. Francis arose today, that to found a body of preaching friars would not be the best thing they could do for the world.' We have the friars, plenty of them, but they have lost their message and what they have got lacks vitality. In the Methodist revival which saved America for democracy there was a force and power in that old-fashioned preaching that took gang leaders and made class leaders of them.

Revival of Personal Religion.

"But what is needed far more than preaching friars is a revival of personal religion that begins at the bottom of life and leaves nothing untouched. Again Hugh Redwood says, 'Religion must throw off its defeatism,' and so it must. A defeated church and a disillusioned world is the generation's greatest tragedy. Why not be honest and let the spiritual awakening begin where it alone can begin, and that is in our own spiritually defeated lives.

"A sense of sin must come upon us again with power, for now, as never before, 'we have found nothing in sin to worry about and nothing in God to fear.' As long as we remain indifferent to sin so long will we be partners in the crimes that blight society. To that extent the stealing of that little baby concerns me as does every crime and every hurt that strikes deep into the social fabric. You can't remain Christian and remain unmoved to drive out of our Nation's life these soul-destroying forces."

Jewish Banquet Marks End Of Drive for $50,000 Here

President of World Zionist Organization Reviews Work of Last Decade; Curtis Among Heads of New Group to Support Project.

Contributors to the United Jewish campaign gathered last night at the Jewish Community Center to attend a banquet marking the close of the $50,000 drive and to hear notable speakers tell of the plight of Jews in other lands that made the raising of relief funds essential.

Although the drive is officially closed with more than $20,000 collected, Drive Chairman Isidore Hershfield announced that a number of the campaign workers would continue their efforts for another week or more.

The principal speaker, Nahum Sokolow, president of the World Zionist Organization and regarded as the foremost Jewish historian, received an ovation from the large gathering. He reviewed the accomplishments of the Zionist organization in Palestine during the last decade. Economic conditions there are more favorable than in most other countries, he said, because it is an agricultural land. There is little or no unemployment there. He stressed the fact, however, that cutting off funds at this time would severely impair the movement. The country must be made ready to receive more immigrants from Eastern Europe as Palestine is the only salvation for thousands of destitute Jews of Europe, Sokolow pointed out.

Dr. Jehudai Kaufman, of Palestine, another speaker, told of the sacrifices made by the pioneer settlers in colonizing the Holy Land. He also spoke of the progress of the Hebrew University in Palestine and the revival of Hebrew as a living language.

James Marshall, of New York, told of the pressing need for relief expenditures in Europe, where, he said, many Jews are facing utter privation.

Federal Judge Julian W. Mack, of New York, spoke briefly of the worthiness of the joint appeal, adding that both causes represented in the united drive were closely aligned.

Dr. Abram Simon, cochairman of the drive, praised the workers for their cooperation during the campaign, and Louis E. Spiegler, executive director of the drive, pledged the workers to renewed efforts this week.

Mrs. Charles H. Rosenthal, chairman of the women's division, and Morris Garfinkle, head of the men workers, spoke a few brief words of greeting.

Leading public figures, headed by Vice President Curtis, Senator William E. Borah, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, and Senator Claude E. Swanson, formally organized and elected officers yesterday of the American Palestine committee, a non-Jewish body for the support of the Jewish Homeland project.

The movement was launched at a reception at the Mayflower Hotel tendered Dr. Sokolow. The foregoing officials accepted election as honorary chairmen. Senator Swanson cabled his acceptance from the Disarmament Conference at Geneva.

Senator William H. King, of Utah, was elected president and chairman of the executive committee; Representative Hamilton Fish, jr., of New York, vice chairman; William Hard, Washington journalist, secretary; William R. Hopkins, former Cleveland city manager and capitalist, treasurer, and Senators Royal S. Copeland, J. Hamilton Lewis, Robert F. Wagner and Reclamation Commissioner Elwood Mead, members of the executive committee.

A declaration of objects, offered by Senator Borah and seconded by Senator King, stated that the American Palestine committee was formed "in keeping with the Lodge-Fish resolution of Congress adopted in 1922, expressing approval by the United States of the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people."

LIGHT HONORING WAR DEAD IS REDEDICATED

Father Hurney Lauds Legion; Reconstructed Memorial Is Presented.

The Memorial Light to the American dead of the World War, established last May by the American Legion in the Church of the Immaculate Conception, was rededicated yesterday at the edifice.

The memorial has been reconstructed and arms actually used in France during the World War have been set up as a background. The helmet of Maj. Gen. William J. Nicholson, bullet-dented from its use at the front, has been added.

The Rev. Francis J. Hurney, chaplain of the Costello Post and pastor of the church, officiated at the service and delivered the address.

He said, "The American Legion is a secular organization, strictly secular in that people of all beliefs and no belief are equally eligible. And yet it comes out more strongly than many strictly religious organizations in its demand that the God be given His proper place in the scheme of things.

"It fosters and promotes love of fellow-man and Christian charity in sharp contrast with the actions of so many allegedly religious organizations whose activities are concerned with anything and everything but Christian charity. For in the very preamble of the constitution of the American Legion it is declared that these veterans of the World War are banded together 'for God and country' and 'to promote peace and good will on earth.'"

The musical program, under direction of Harry Wheaton Howard, included Miss Florence Yocum, soprano; Fred Nolan, barytone, both soloists of the senior choir; Norman De Meza, soprano soloist of the Boys' Sanctuary Choir, and Miss Ann Arlen, violinist.

The colors presented at the Purgatorian Shrine, where the Memorial Light is installed, included the national colors; the colors of the Costello Post and the colors of the German-American Post, of Buffalo, N. Y. The service was broadcast under auspices of the Washington Catholic Radio Hour.

TAXI DRIVER SAVES COUPLE GAS FELLED

Finds Man and Woman, Who Had Called Him, Unconscious.

Two persons were found in an unconscious condition when the door of their apartment at 1314 Fourteenth street was broken open after a strong odor of gas became noticeable in the building.

Benjamin Abrams, of 1701 Park road, a taxicab driver, who was engaged by the occupants of the apartment for a trip which was to start at 4 p. m. yesterday approached the door of the rooms, and smelling escaping gas, he forced the door. On entering, he found the occupants, James Henson and his wife, in a stupor.

Mrs. Henson was lying beside a gas range, of which all of the jets were open. Mr. Henson was reclining on a couch in a semiconscious conditions. Abrams carried Henson to an open window, where he regained consciousness. The fire rescue squad administered first aid to Mrs. Henson and she was then taken to Casualty Hospital. Mr. Henson said that the open jets were an accident.

CONCEPTION OF GOD NEEDS ADJUSTMENT, MINISTER DECLARES

Rev. John Temple Delivers Sermon at Christ Church in Georgetown.

CHILDHOOD IMPRESSIONS ARE CALLED PERMANENT

Cites Unconscious Custom of Using Symbols in Regard to Divinity.

"God must become man, must take upon Him our flesh, must accept the limitations of our experience in order that He may become intelligible to man," said the Rev. John Temple, preaching yesterday at Christ Church in Georgetown.

"This is the teaching of the incarnation. As the proper study of mankind is man, so, for the spiritually mature man and woman, the proper study of the divine begins with man," the Rev. Mr. Temple continued.

"How do we think of God?" the speaker said. "There are a very great many people, too many people, in the world who are always breaking the Second Commandment. Not that they make an idol and bow down to it. But they do set up a graven image of God in their hearts and minds which stays with them from the cradle to the cemetery."

Moment of Childhood.

"Most of us still worship. If we worship at all, a figure of God which was given to us in some impressionable moment of childhood. That figure is changeless, and so God appears to us as changeless.

"But God can not be a static God. He 'changeth not' in the sense that His tomorrow will be consistent with His yesterday. He is not a contriver of the unconsidered. But until creation is completed He must be a forward moving God. As the old hymn puts it, 'God is working His purpose out.'

"The term God is properly one of poetry and our work-a-day task is to find the prose for it. Sometimes I think it would be a good thing to preach a series of sermons on symbols. We use them constantly and so many people do not know what they are doing when they do use them.

Use of Symbols.

"So when we think of the great God we are compelled to use symbols. We take something that comes within our own experience. We lift it up as far as we can reach and use it to help our thought about God. We call Him father and husband and mother and friend. We call Him "ancient of days" and the night and morning star and the Rose of Sharon. We say we see the light of knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ. All are symbols of the great God.

"To the measure of our capacity we can know God by what He is in us and to us and our capacity increases as we use it. No matter how far we go back in the human story we find an altar set up in the life of man. Through all changes of thought and life in the midst of all prosperities and disasters there is one constant reality upon which men may rely. What is it?

"The fact remains today as in all the past, that wherever men hunger and thirst after God and truly seek Him, there is a response of peace and power and by that token man lives.

Adjustment Is Needed.

"We do not escape God and His Christ and the Holy Spirit by casting aside the creeds as so many do today. Still God comforts us, haunts us.

"Why do we believe in Him? Because we can not help it. Because we can not deny His purity, His love, His pity, His holy kindness, His fearless faith in us even when we have no faith of our own, His relentless mercy.

"What we need is not an argument about God, but adjustment to Him, in whom we live, and with whom we have to do every day, everywhere.

"Jesus said that by single-hearted devotion to the best we know, we may learn the truth most worth knowing. To that adventure we are called. In that quest we shall find Him," the Rev. Mr. Temple concluded.

Sneering Biographers Get Lashing at Library Parley

Columbia Association Also Hears Dr. D. Malone Deplore Modern Gang Stories and Urge Better Reading Material for Prisons.

Discussing the debunking school of biography, Dr. Dumas Malone, editor of the Dictionary of American Biography, told members of the Columbia Library Association he had little sympathy for the biographer who writes with a sneer.

"Biography," he stated, "is the most human of all writing, and the biographer can afford to be humane. Where scandal entered into the public life of a man it might be important that it be included, if the space was adequate and in cases of persons of great importance it may be relegated to bibliography," he asserted.

Austin H. MacCormick, assistant director of the United States Bureau of Prisons, addressed the group on the prison libraries of the future. In selecting books and working with the prisoners, he stated, it must be recognized that the prisoners are not very different from the people outside, and that they represent a cross-section of the lower strata whose opportunities for cultural improvement have been limited.

Crime and mystery stories must be used sparingly, he stated. Modern gang stories are particularly bad as many people are too plastic to read gang adventures without ill effects. All libraries, he contended would do well to limit their expenditures for this type of book.

Frederick W. Ashley, chief assistant librarian of the Library of Congress, addressed the meeting on "Current Library of Congress Exhibitions," and told a number of anecdotes of the acquisitions in the outstanding collections.

Dr. George F. Bowerman, librarian of the Washington Public Libraries and who is president of the association, presided at all sessions of the meeting. Dr. Raymond A. Pearson, president of the University of Maryland, welcomed the members of the organization at the meeting.

Sessions of the meeting were held in the Agriculture Hall of the University of Maryland. A dinner meeting was held in Barker Hall of the Y. W. C. A. in Washington. One of the features of the gathering was a visit of members to the Folger Shakespeare Library.

Scouts to Decorate Arlington.

'Review of Revues' Staged By Children at National Capacity House Cheers Performance of Young Players of Hoffman and Hoskins; Honors Are Shared by Entire Cast in Show.

Youth, extreme youth, held the center of the stage last night when Hoffman and Hoskins presented their kiddies in "A Review of Revues" at the National Theater before a capacity house. The performance, which had all the earmarks of a Ziegfeld premiere in number of acts and in lapsed time, was studded with ace-high songs and dances, with the more youthful the actor the more spontaneous and ingenuous the performance, much to the delight of the audience.

From a program of over a dozen different episodes, each one composed of many individual specialties, it would be nearly impossible to pick out all those who deserve especial mention. Somewhere in the program each of the youthful performers made his own hit, sometimes in a song, sometimes in a dance, and sometimes in entirely unintended comedy.

To Ruth Hohberger, Jack Stake, Buddy Murphy and Dunwreath Grover, for their adagio number; to petite Pansy Connor and Cobby Covel for their rendering of "When Cherries Grow On the Lilac Trees;" to Isabelle Hamilton, Annie Carpenter and Jack Hoffman, jr., for their adagio number, and to Warren Brill for his interpretations in dance of "Good Night, Sweetheart," with Mary Ann Stake, Jane Stanton, Ruth Hohberger and Mae Jacobs—to these for their specialties go, perhaps, the principal honors for the evening.

Without going into detail, it may be said that, for the audience, the interest in the numbers increased as the age of the participants decreased; the older of the boys and girls performed with a studied finality which, while lending to smoothness of production, lost the ebullience of the younger children, who did their number with all the vim and vigor of youth unhampered by any ideas, false or otherwise, of histrionics.

The group numbers were exquisitely staged and reached their highest points in a charming colonial minuet and a military tap routine.

If present trends in choreographic art are represented by last night's performance, it would appear that tap dancing, while still holding a position of security, is being closely pressed by toe dancing, especially of the toe-tapping variety.

Withal a very excellent performance, and the boys and girls deserve no little credit for their fine showing, which eloquently testifies to the sterling quality of Hoffman and Hoskins.
